Date

Pursuant to the judgment herein made, dated the day of 19 , having caused an office copy thereof to be served upon [state the names of persons served, and also the names of those upon whom the service has been dispensed with, and the reason for dispensing with service], I proceeded to dispose of the matters referred to me, and thereupon was attended by the solicitors for all parties interested [or as the case may be], and I find as follows:

1. The personal estate not specifically bequeathed of the testator come to the hands of the executors, and wherewith they are chargeable, amounts to the sum of $ , and they have paid, or are entitled to be allowed thereout, the sum of $ , leaving a balance due from [or to] them, of $ , on that account.

[If no personal estate, say: No personal estate has come to the hands of the executors, nor are they chargeable with any].

2. The creditors' claims sent in pursuant to my advertisement in that behalf and which have been allowed, are set forth in the first schedule hereto, and amount altogether to $ .

[In no creditors, say: No creditor has sent in a claim pursuant to my advertisement in that behalf, nor has any such claim been proved before me].

3. The funeral expenses of the testator amounting to $ have been paid by the executors and are allowed to them in the account of personal estate.

4. The legacies given by the testator are set forth in the second schedule hereto, and with the interest therein mentioned, remain due to the persons named [or as the case may be].

5. The personal estate of the said testator outstanding or undisposed of, is set forth in the third schedule hereto.

In this third schedule personal estate not specifically bequeathed should be set forth separately from the other personalty outstanding or undisposed of. If there is no specific bequest, it should be so stated in the body of the report.

6. The real estate which the said testator was seized of or entitled to, and the incumbrances (if any) affecting the same, are set forth in the fourth schedule hereto.

7. The rents and profits of the testator's real estate received by the said executors, or with which they are chargeable, amount to $ and they have paid, or are entitled to be allowed thereout, the sum of $ , leaving a balance due from [or to] them of $ on that account.

[If no rents, etc., received, say: No rents and profits have come to the hands of the said executors, nor are they chargeable with any].

8. I have allowed the said executors the sum of $ as a compensation for their personal services in the management of the said estate.

9. I have caused the real estate (other than parcels which were specifically devised) to be sold and the purchasers have paid their purchase money into Court.

10. In the schedule I have shown how the money in Court is to be dealt with.

[No general form can well be framed for the other Schedules, but in all cases brevity is to be studied. Where particulars are given they should show merely the general character of the things described; as, for instance, the Schedule of outstanding personalty may say: A number of book debts outstanding amounting in the aggregate to $ ; a quantity of household furniture and effects valued at $ ; and the like short particulars should be given in other cases. Lands should be described without setting forth metes and bounds.]

THE ACTIVE SERVICE ELECTION ACT, 1945

O. Reg. 31/45.
The Ontario Active Service Voting Regulations, 1945.
New.
Made—April 12th, 1945.
Approved—April 12th, 1945.
Filed—April 17th, 1945, 3.30 p.m.

Toronto, April 12th, 1945.

I, Alexander Cameron Lewis, Chief Election Officer for the Province of Ontario, certify, pursuant to section 2, subsection 3 of The Active Service Election Act, 1945:

1. That in the preparation of the attached regulations (The Ontario Active Service Voting Regulations, 1945) made by me under The Active Service Election Act, 1945, I have consulted with the Chief Electoral Officer for Canada;

2. That the Chief Electoral Officer for Canada stated that he had been advised by officials of the Department of National Defence, the Department of National Defence for Naval Services, and the Department of National Defence for Air, that the period of seven days between nomination day and voting day, as provided by the Election Act (Ontario) is wholly inadequate to effectively take the votes of Active Service Voters and that a minimum period of twenty-eight days, as provided by the Dominion Election Act, 1938, is essential for the taking of such votes. The Chief Electoral Officer concurs in this view and has so advised me, and appropriate and necessary provisions have been made for receiving and transmitting nominations of candidates in order to effectively take the votes of Active Service Voters;

3. That the attached regulations are, subject to section 3 of The Active Service Election Act, 1945, as nearly as may be in the same form and to the same effect as The Canadian War Service Voting Regulations, 1944, being Schedule A to An Act to provide regulations enabling Canadian War Service Electors to exercise their franchise, and Canadian Prisoners of War to vote by proxy, at any general election held during the present war, also to provide amendments to The Dominion Elections Act, 1938, consequential to such regulations or made necessary by the advent of the said war, being Chapter 26 of the Statutes passed at the Fifth Session of the Nineteenth Parliament of Canada.

ALEX. C. LEWIS,
Chief Election Officer for Ontario.

WHO MAY VOTE BY PROXY

5.—(1) Every person who, while on service or duty relating to the present war, became a prisoner of war as herein defined, shall be entitled to vote by proxy at a general election, such proxy being his next of kin who is officially recorded as such at Headquarters, and such vote shall be cast in the electoral district in which the Active Service voter was ordinarily resident and domiciled for at least thirty days immediately preceding the day upon which he became qualified as an Active Service voter and in the polling division thereof in which such next of kin is a qualified voter.

ORDINARY RESIDENCE PRESUMED

(2) The address of a prisoner of war which is officially recorded at Headquarters shall in the absence of evidence to the contrary satisfactory to the Chief Election Officer, be deemed to be the address at which such prisoner of war was ordinarily resident and domiciled for at least thirty days immediately preceding the day on which he became qualified as an Active Service voter.

VOTING TO BE ON CERTIFICATE

6. The vote of a prisoner of war shall be cast by proxy on a special proxy certificate prescribed and issued by the Chief Election Officer. 7. Any person to whom a special proxy certificate has been issued shall be entitled to vote in his own right in the polling division in which such person is a qualified voter, notwithstanding that he has voted, or is about to vote, as proxy for one or more prisoners of war.

NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF PRISONERS OF WAR AND THEIR NEXT OF KIN SUPPLIED BY HEADQUARTERS

8. Whenever deemed expedient, the Chief Election Officer may request that he be furnished by Headquarters with the names and surname and rank of every member of the Naval, Military or Air Forces and Merchant Navy of Canada who is officially recorded at Headquarters as a prisoner of war, as herein defined. At the same time, the Chief Election Officer may request that he be furnished with the names and surname of the next of kin of such prisoner of war as officially recorded at Headquarters, together with the last known place of residence of such next of kin, with street address, if any.

QUALIFICATION AS VOTER OF NEXT OF KIN ASCERTAINED BY RETURNING OFFICER

9. As soon as possible after a general election has been ordered, the Chief Election Officer shall communicate with the returning officer for the electoral district in which is situated the place of residence of the next of kin of a prisoner of war, as stated by Headquarters pursuant to the next preceding paragraph, and direct such returning officer to ascertain whether or not such next of kin is a qualified voter at such place of residence at the pending general election and to advise the Chief Election Officer accordingly.

DESPATCH OF CERTIFICATES TO NEXT OF KIN

10. Beginning one week before polling day at a general election, the Chief Election Officer shall issue the special proxy certificates to the next of kin of prisoners of war who are entitled to receive them. These certificates shall be despatched to such next of kin by registered mail and shall be accompanied with such instructions as are deemed advisable by the Chief Election Officer as to the manner in which such certificate shall be used.

NOTIFICATION TO RETURNING OFFICER

11. Whenever special proxy certificates are despatched to next of kin of prisoners of war residing in a given electoral district, the Chief Election Officer shall advise the returning officer for such electoral district of the names and post office addresses of the persons to whom such certificates are issued.

NOTIFICATION TO DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICER

12. Upon the receipt of such notification, or as soon as possible thereafter, the returning officer shall, on the form prescribed by the Chief Election Officer, accordingly advise the deputy returning officer appointed for the polling station at which the holder of any special proxy is a qualified voter.

MANNER OF VOTING BY PROXY

13. Before being allowed to cast the vote of a prisoner of war the next of kin shall deliver his special proxy certificate to the deputy returning officer and shall satisfy that officer that he is the person mentioned as next of kin on such certificate. The deputy returning officer shall cause the usual entries to be made in the poll book, and shall record in the remarks column of such poll book, opposite such entries, the name of the prisoner of war and the fact that the next of kin has voted as proxy on his behalf. When this has been done the deputy returning officer shall hand a ballot paper to the next of kin who will proceed to one of the voting compartments and secretly mark such ballot paper for the candidate of his choice whose name, address and occupation are printed on such ballot paper.

BALLOT PAPER INITIALLED AND DEALT WITH IN ORDINARY MANNER

With the exception of the deputy returning officer's initials which must be affixed in the space provided for that purpose on the back of the ballot paper, there shall not be any marks written or made by any election officer on either the front or the back of the ballot paper handed to a next of kin who is voting as proxy for a prisoner of war. When the ballot paper has been duly marked it shall be handed by the next of kin to the deputy returning officer who will remove the counterfoil and place the ballot paper in the ballot box or otherwise deal with such ballot paper as if it had been cast by a qualified voter in the polling division.

OFFENCES PENALTIES

15. Every person who votes or attempts to vote at a general election under the authority of a special proxy certificate issued pursuant to these Regulations, when he knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing that he is not entitled to receive any such certificate, shall be guilty of a corrupt practice within the meaning of The Election Act, and shall be liable to the penalties imposed by the said Act for such an offence.

CONDITIONS

Section 1. The carrier of any of the goods herein described shall be liable for any loss thereof or damage thereto except as hereinafter provided.

Section 2. In the case of shipments from one point in Ontario to another point in Ontario, the Carrier issuing this bill of lading, in addition to its other liability hereunder, shall be liable for any loss, damage or injury to such goods from which the other Carrier is not by the terms of this bill of lading relieved, caused by or resulting from the act, neglect or default of any other Carrier to which such goods may be delivered in Ontario, or over whose motor vehicle route or routes such goods may pass in Ontario, the onus of proving that such loss was not so caused or did not so result being upon the Carrier issuing this bill of lading. The Carrier issuing this bill of lading shall be entitled to recover from the other Carrier on whose motor vehicle route or routes the loss, damage or injury to the said goods shall have been sustained the amount of such loss, damage or injury as it may be required to pay hereunder as may be evidenced by any receipt, judgment or transcript thereof. Nothing in this section shall deprive the holder of this bill of lading or party entitled to the goods of any remedy or right of action which he may have against the Carrier issuing this bill of lading or any other Carrier.

Section 3. The Carrier shall not be liable for loss, damage or delay to any of the goods herein described, caused by an Act of God, the King's or public enemies, riots, strikes, defect or inherent vice in the goods, or the act or default of the shipper or owner, the authority of law, or by quarantine.

(a) Section 4. No Carrier is bound to transport said goods by any particular motor vehicle or in time for any particular market or otherwise than with due despatch, unless by specific agreement endorsed hereon. Every Carrier in case of physical necessity shall have the right to forward said goods by any conveyance or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination; but if such diversion be from a motor vehicle to any other conveyance the liability of the Carrier shall be the same as though the entire carriage were by motor vehicle.

(b) The amount of any loss or damage for which any Carrier is liable shall be computed on the basis of the value of the goods at the place and time of shipment under this bill of lading (including the freight and other charges if paid) unless a lower value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been agreed upon, in any of which events such lower value shall be the amount to govern such computation whether or not such loss or damage occurs from negligence, except that the carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage for any amount in excess of $40.00 per hundred pounds unless a higher value is declared on the face of this bill of lading.

(c) When the goods are carried at owner's risk such conditions are intended to cover only such risks as are necessarily incidental to transportation and shall not relieve the Carrier from liability for any loss, damage or delay which may result from any negligence or omission of the Carrier, its agents or employees and the burden of proving freedom from such negligence or omission shall be on the Carrier.

(d) Notice of loss, damage or delay must be made in writing to the Carrier at point of delivery, or to the Carrier at the point of origin, within two months after delivery of the goods or in case of failure to make delivery, then within two months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. Unless notice is so given the Carrier shall not be liable.

(e) Any Carrier or party liable on account of loss of or damage to any of said goods, on reimbursing to the insured the premium paid in respect thereof, shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected upon or on account of said goods, so far as this shall not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance.

Section 5. No Carrier shall be bound to carry any documents, specie or any article of extraordinary value unless a special agreement to do so (the duty of obtaining such special agreement to be on the Carrier when the nature of goods is disclosed herein) and a stipulated value of the articles is endorsed hereon. If such goods are carried without a special agreement and the nature of the goods is not disclosed hereon the Carrier shall not be liable for any loss or damage thereto.

Section 6. The owner or consignee shall pay the freight and all other lawful charges accruing on said goods, and, if required, shall pay the same before delivery. If upon inspection it is ascertained that the goods shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the freight charges must be paid upon the goods actually shipped, with any additional penalties lawfully payable thereon.

Section 7. Every party, whether principal or agent, shipping explosives or dangerous articles without previous full written disclosure to the Carrier or its agent of their nature, shall be liable for all loss or damage caused thereby, and such goods may be warehoused at owner's risk and expense, or destroyed without compensation.

Section 8. Any alteration, addition or erasure in this bill of lading shall be signed or initialled in the margin by an agent of the Carrier issuing the same, and if not so signed or initialled shall be without effect, and this bill of lading shall be enforceable according to its original tenor.

Section 9. The Carrier represents to the shipper as a condition of the contract that he has on file with the Department of Highways a certificate of insurance, which will remain in force during the pendency of this contract, showing that the cargo carried is insured against loss or damage caused by fire; collision—as usually understood; overturning of the vehicle; collapse of bridges; theft of an entire package. The insurance applies from the time the cargo is loaded on the vehicle of the Carrier at place of origin until it is unloaded therefrom at place of destination.

THE TELEPHONE ACT

O. Reg. 272/44.
Minimum standard requirements for telephone systems.
Replacing.
Made—October 19th, 1918.
Filed—December 21st, 1944, 2.00 p.m.

POLES

A pole line to carry one metallic circuit attached to side brackets shall consist of poles not less than twenty feet in length, five inches in diameter at the top. At highway crossings poles must be of such length as will give the wires a clearance of not less than twenty feet above the crown of the highway, and eighteen feet above the surface of permanent driveways leading from the road on to private property.

A line to carry one six pin cross-arm shall consist of poles not less than twenty-five feet in length, five inches in diameter at the top, which will be sufficient to carry three metallic circuits.

A line to carry one ten pin cross-arm shall consist of poles not less than twenty-five feet in length, six inches in diameter at the top, which will be sufficient to carry five metallic circuits.

All lines to carry more than one cross-arm shall consist of poles of not less than twenty-five feet in length, seven inches in diameter at the top.

WIRE

All lines shall consist of metallic circuits of No. 12 British Standard Gauge BB or EBB galvanized iron wire.

LOCATING POLES

In locating the line, measure off and place stakes at a distance of 165 feet apart (equal to thirty-two poles per mile) for lines up to ten wires (five circuits); and at a distance of 155 feet apart (equal to thirty-four poles per mile) for lines up to twenty wires (ten circuits). Stakes should be placed clear of water courses, and as far from the roadway as possible. Measure distance without regard to obstacles, and place poles as near stakes as possible. On corners, shorten up the last span to 135 feet and make a double corner. On heavy curves shorten the stretches ten feet.

TREES

All reasonable expedients may be adopted to clear trees, using shorter poles, if necessary, to pass wires under trees. Trees must not be trimmed until permission from the owner or proper authority has been obtained.

DISTANCE FROM OTHER WIRES

All circuits shall be three feet above or below other telephone or telegraph wires or conductors connected with grounded secondary circuits of transformers below 350 volts. This does not apply to insulated drop wire passing over or under telephone or telegraph lines.

HIGH TENSION CIRCUITS

Insulated wires or cables suspended on a grounded messenger wire shall be used where lines cross under high tension power circuits. On no account must lines be erected over high tension circuits without the permission and under the direction of the authorities controlling such circuits. In any case the following clearances must be maintained between telephone circuits and conductors other than those designated in the preceding paragraph:—

At least five feet from primaries, ungrounded secondaries and railway feeders employing less than 10,000 volts;

At least ten feet from high tension conductors employing a potential of 10,000 volts or over.

HEIGHT OF WIRES

In distributing the poles, place the heaviest on corners, and the straightest and best poles opposite residences. In towns, villages and at road crossings, no wire or attachment to poles shall be of less height than twenty feet from the crown of the road, and at railway crossings twenty-five feet from the top of the rails. Poles should be graded so as to avoid a change of more than five feet in the height of wires or cables on adjacent poles.

LIGHTNING RODS

A lightning rod of one No. 9 galvanized iron wire shall be placed upon every tenth pole, making two hand turns of the wire under the butt of the pole and stapling it by two-inch staples along the entire length of the pole leaving three inches of the wire pointing above the top.

SETTING POLE

All poles must be peeled and trimmed and tops made roof or "A" shape. In setting the poles, the ridge of the roof shall be parallel with the wires so as to give the line a uniform appearance.

Poles shall be set in the ground at a depth of not less than four feet for twenty-foot poles; five feet for twenty-five-foot poles; five and one-half feet for thirty-foot poles; and six feet for thirty-five or forty-foot poles. In rock, set poles to a depth of three feet. Where construction in solid rock would be too expensive, if sufficient loose stones can be had, stone cairns may be used on short light leads. Set all poles perpendicularly, except on curves and corners where they can be leaned slightly against the strain.

Holes shall be dug large enough to admit pole without stabbing or hewing, and full size at the bottom to permit the use of iron tampers. When the pole is in position use one shovel to two tampers, packing the filling continuously until the hole is filled. Pile the soil above the surface and pack firmly around the pole. Clean ditches and restore the surface of the highway to its original condition. In filling holes, use coarse soil or gravel at top of hole.

SIDE BRACKETS

Side brackets on straight runs shall be placed one on each side of the pole not less than eighteen inches apart, the upper bracket being eight inches below the top of the pole. At crossings and on curves or corners all side brackets shall be on the side of the pole against the strain. When the lines have crossed the road and the straight run is continued, place the side brackets in the same relative position as at starting point.

CROSS-ARMS

Cross-arms shall be placed in gains cut in the pole not more than three-quarter-inch deep and so as to permit the cross-arm to fit tightly. The centre of the top gain shall be ten inches from the top of the pole, and the second gain not less than eighteen inches below top gain.

Cross-arms shall not be less than three inches by four inches, equipped with hardwood top pins fastened in the arm by a nail. Pins to be not less than twelve-inch centres with seventeen-inch centres for pole space.

Cross-arms shall be fastened to the pole by a five-eighths-inch machine bolt through pole. Square iron washers shall be placed under the head and nut of the bolt. Arms shall be braced with two iron braces attached to the arm by three-eighths-inch carriage bolts, and to the pole by not less than four inches by three-eighths-inch lag screw.

GUY STUBS

Guy stubs shall be used where it is necessary to raise guys to proper distance over streets.

ANCHORS

Patent anchors may be used except on heavy leads. On heavy leads and where there is an exceptional strain the anchor should consist of a piece of pole or other sound timber of equal diameter not less than three feet long buried the same depth as the butt of the pole. Before burying a hole shall be bored through the centre of the log and a six foot by five-eighths-inch guy rod secured to it by means of a square washer and nut. Before filling in the earth, the guy rod shall be sloped towards the pole at the same angle as the guy wire will take, so that the guy will give a straight pull on the anchor. Anchors shall not be located nearer the pole than one-third its height above the ground.

BRACES

Side braces shall be used where guying is not possible. Braces should consist of poles not less than fifteen feet in length, set in the ground at a distance of not less than six feet from the butt of the pole and at a depth of at least three feet. At the butt the brace should rest against two pieces of two-inch plank nailed together crosswise. The top of the brace should be shaped to bear evenly against the pole to which it shall be fastened by means of two half-inch by six-inch lag screws.

ROAD CROSSINGS

Road crossings shall be at an angle of forty-five degrees and shall be sufficiently reinforced by guys or braces to withstand all possible strain. Guy crossings and corners with side guys in the manner most applicable to existing conditions.

GUY WIRES

Guy wires shall consist of not less than two No. 9 wires twisted for bracket leads; seven strands of No. 16 crucible steel wire for single cross-arm leads, and seven strands of No. 13 crucible steel wire for heavier leads. Wrap the end of guys twice around the pole, and so arrange the wrapping as to bind on the back of the pole. A guy thimble shall be placed in the eye of the guy rod and guy clamps shall be used to fasten the ends of the wire to the guy. Guy clamps must not be fastened closer to the pole than twelve inches. Where there is a continuous strain, to prevent the wire cutting into the pole it should be protected by pole shims or sheet iron. To prevent the guy slipping down the pole it should be secured by staples or nails.

In solid rock guys should be attached by means of a self-wedging eye-bolt.

STRINGING WIRE

Wires shall be strung in such manner as to avoid kinking, interference with other wires, or interruption of traffic.

WIRES ON BRACKETS

Wires on side brackets shall be tied on the side of the insulator nearest the pole. On curves or corners of side bracket lines the wires shall be tied so that the strain shall be against the insulator.

JOINTING WIRE

When jointing, the wires should first be made clean and bright, then twisted by means of pliers and splicing clamp, taking not less than five turns on each side of joint, after which it should be soldered by dipping. Connectors or patent sleeves may be used instead of the ordinary spliced joint.

TRANSPOSITIONS

Metallic circuit lines carried on side brackets may be transposed by using a two-pin cross-arm or double transposition insulators and pins for changing the relative positions of the wires on the pole. Where lines are carried on cross-arms use transposition brackets or double transposition insulators and pins.

LEADING-IN WIRES

Leading-in-wires shall be No. 16 B. & S. copper or "Ironite," or No. 17 steel copper clad wire, rubber insulated, braided and twisted in pairs, securely fastened to the building by means of side brackets and insulators, porcelain knobs or galvanized iron hooks wrapped with marline, and carried to a standard lightning protector which shall be placed inside the premises as close as possible to where the wire enters the building. Drip loops should be left where the wires enter, to prevent water from running into the building. Leading-in-wires must not touch the ground at any point.

GROUNDING PROTECTORS

Lightning protectors shall be grounded by connecting an insulated No. 16 copper wire from ground terminal of the protector to a five-eighths-inch by six feet iron rod driven into the ground at least five feet in a location where the earth is least likely to freeze. The wire must be well soldered, or clamped by means of a proper ground clamp, to the rod. Where it is possible to attach the ground wire to a water pipe, the iron rod may be dispensed with.

Where telephones are equipped with lightning arresters, these must also be connected with the ground wire.

TELEPHONES

Standard Bridging Telephones having ringer coils wound to a resistance of not less than 1,600 ohms, such as are made by manufacturers of repute, shall be used.

The maximum load on one party line circuit shall not exceed fifteen telephones, and all the telephones or extension bells on any one circuit must have ringer coils wound to the same resistance.

RAILWAYS

When it is necessary to carry wires over any railway under the jurisdiction of this Province, the crossing shall be constructed according to the Board's standard specification prepared in pursuance of Section 64 of The Ontario Railway Act.

Wires crossing the C.P.R., G.T.R., C.N.R., M.C.R., and other railways under the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada, must be erected in accordance with specifications to be obtained from the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, Ottawa.

REVOCATION

All previous Specifications, fixing the minimum Standard Requirements for the construction and equipment of Telephone Systems to be installed under any Act of the Ontario Legislature, are hereby cancelled.

WEIGHING

18.—(a) At every plant the milk of each producer shall, when received, be emptied into a weighing can, sitting on or hanging from a suitable scale and the outlet of the weighing can shall not leak while the weighing and the sampling is being performed, provided that an operator of a small business may on application and at the discretion of the Board secure permission in writing from the Board to dispense with the use of a weighing can, in which case, the weight of the empty container shall be marked clearly thereon.

(b) All milk shall be weighed accurately to the nearest pound and immediately after weighing the weight shall be entered in a proper record of weights.

SAMPLING AND TESTING

(d) To determine the butterfat content of the milk a representative quantity of half an ounce or more shall be taken for a composite test from each delivery after the milk in the weighing can has been thoroughly mixed and when no weighing can is used the said representative quantity shall be taken from each can of milk after the milk in the can has been thoroughly mixed.

(e) Every sample of milk shall be plainly labelled for identification with the name or the number of the producer and shall be held in a container with a tight fitting stopper and kept in a cool room free from all danger of contamination and the sample shall be stored at a temperature of from 40 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit and as near 50 as possible.

(f) A preservative satisfactory to the Board, such as corrosive sublimate tablets, shall be used to preserve the composite samples and the samples shall be mixed after each addition of fresh milk.

20.—(a) At every plant the composite samples of milk shall be tested within five days after the last sample for the testing period is taken and kept for at least fifteen days after the last sample is taken.

(b) For testing the butterfat content of milk, the Babcock test shall in all cases be used and the official method approved by the American Association of Agricultural Chemists shall be recognized.

(c) In making the Babcock test of milk the samples to be tested shall, after tempering, be properly mixed by pouring from one vessel to another before being pipetted into the test bottle and the readings of the fat in the test bottle shall be made from the extreme points of the fat column at a temperature of 130 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit.

(d) Babcock testing machines shall be operated at speeds which are not less than:

| Size of Machine Diameter of Circle | Revolutions per minute |
|---|---|
| 10 inches | 1,074 |

(e) When an inspector finds an error exceeding one-tenth per centum in the plant test of any producer's milk, the distributor shall forthwith correct such error on the records and give the producer a new statement and pay the producer in accordance with the inspector's test.

(f) Every distributor who operates a plant where testing is performed shall provide a Babcock tester, preferably power driven with all the necessary government stamped glassware to make the test.

(g) No glassware shall be used in making the Babcock test unless it is marked according to The Dairy Industry Act (Canada) and regulations passed thereunder.

(h) Babcock sulphuric acid of correct specific gravity (1.82 or 1.83) shall be used in making the test.

(i) Every plant shall provide a small metal tank, 30 inches long, 12 inches wide and 8 inches deep, inside measurements to hold 24 one-pint composite sample bottles to be used as a tempering bath for the composite samples at the time of testing and a water bath in which to place the test bottles to ensure a uniform temperature when the per centum of fat is read.

(j) Every distributor shall provide calipers, thermometers and a source of hot water satisfactory to the inspector.

EQUIPMENT

1. When the words following occur they shall be construed in the manner hereinafter mentioned unless a contrary intention appears.

(a) "Institution" shall mean a reformatory established under The Reformatory Act of Ontario or an industrial farm for male prisoners established under The Industrial Farms Act of Ontario, as the case may be.

(f) "Hospital" shall mean such portion or portions of the buildings as may be set apart for the care of those inmates who may be physically or mentally ill.

(g) "Rules and regulations" shall mean the rules and regulations approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

2. The Minister, subject to Statutes and regulations, pertaining to the public service, shall appoint such officers and employees as he may consider necessary.

OFFICES

3. The location of all offices and quarters for officers, employees and inmates in the various buildings of the institution shall be made subject to the direction of the Deputy Minister.

SUPERINTENDENT

4. The Superintendent shall be the chief administrative officer and as such is responsible for the detailed management, custodial care, government and discipline of the inmates and the direction of all officers and employees of the institution.

5. He shall be guided by the Statutes relating to the institution, the rules and regulations and such special instructions which may from time to time be prescribed by the Minister or the Deputy Minister.

6. The Superintendent shall, subject to these rules and regulations, issue to the officers and employees such special directions as may be necessary for the governing and discipline of the institution; the assignment of guards and inmates' duties and hours of same; the procedure to be followed on the admission, parole or discharge of inmates; the care and distribution of inmates' clothing, bedding and effects, correspondence of inmates, the visiting of inmates by friends; the purchase of supplies and materials; the direction of all industrial operations and the keeping of such custodial records, farm and industrial accounts as directed from time to time by the Deputy Minister. When assigning guards for duty the Superintendent shall take into consideration the previous experience of such guards and their qualifications for the duty to which they may be assigned.

7. The Superintendent shall, with his family, be required to reside on the premises but shall not use the institution labour (except for purposes specified by the Deputy Minister) nor shall he use the services of any officer, employee or inmate of the institution for his private advantage.

8. The Superintendent is responsible for the custodial care of the inmates, that they are otherwise properly cared for, that good discipline is maintained, that all the officers and employees properly carry out their duties and that all inmates perform the proper amount and quality of work.

9. The Superintendent is responsible for the exercising of strict economy in the purchase of supplies and materials and the use of such supplies and materials for the institution.

10. It is the duty of the Superintendent to see that all rules and regulations are firmly and impartially enforced. He shall grant no privileges to any inmate that cannot be earned by each and every inmate under like conditions.

11. The Superintendent shall not absent himself from the institution for more than twelve hours without giving notice to the Deputy Minister nor shall he absent himself from duty for more than twenty-four hours without leave of absence or, in the case of sickness, reporting himself sick to the Deputy Minister. On all occasions of his absence he shall leave the sergeant or such other officer as may be designated by the Deputy Minister, in charge, who shall perform all his duties and be subject to his responsibilities, but it will be the duty of such officer to reserve for the Superintendent's consideration all important matters that do not demand immediate settlement. Should an extraordinary emergency arise reference will at once be made to the Deputy Minister.

12. When any subordinate officer or employee of the institution is found by the Superintendent to be unfit for his duties or defective in moral character or who has been guilty of neglect of duty, disobedience of orders, or who has otherwise violated the rules and regulations, it shall be the duty of the Superintendent to report the case to the Deputy Minister, suspending such officer or employee from all duty pending the Deputy Minister's investigation into the case. The Superintendent shall not, however, summarily dismiss any officer without such investigation. When any officer or employee is so suspended from the date of such suspension no wages accruing or in arrears will be paid to him, as he is held liable to fine under the Deputy Minister's authority.

13. The Superintendent shall consider it his duty to make himself acquainted with the social habits and conduct of every officer and employee of the institution, particularly whether when off duty he is a frequenter of places of ill repute or associates with idle or loose characters, reporting the facts to the Deputy Minister. When such are known to be the habits of any officer or employee it shall in every case be sufficient grounds for his suspension.

14. The Superintendent shall use every means in his power to forward the reclammation of the inmates under his charge. He shall see that they attend divine service regularly or such religious meetings as may be held for their benefit and instruction and that such as are deficient attend such classes as are provided and shall facilitate their communication with clergymen of their respective denominations for religious instruction. He shall see that the books of the library are regularly issued to those entitled to their use and that morality and decorum characterize their behaviour.

15. The Superintendent shall cause a complete inventory to be made of all property, clothing or money found on the person of an inmate in the "Inmates' Effects Book"; on arrival the money, if any be found, and the effects to be handed to an officer designated for such duty for safe keepng and shall see that the same, with all effects, is resitored to the inmate on his discharge or parole.

16. Upon the serious illness of an inmate the Superintendent shall notify a clergyman, preferably of the denomination to which the inmate may belong, and shall consult the wishes of the inmate as to any particular person he may desire to see. Upon the death of an inmate he shall at once report to the Deputy Minister in writing, giving particulars as to name, sentence, where from, duration of illness, nature of disease, etc., and shall use all reasonable means to inform the nearest relations of the deceased and shall record the facts in the register. He shall also notify the coroner and facilitate any investigation or inquest the coroner may wish to hold, sending a copy of the verdict of the coroner's jury to the Deputy Minister. In the case of the escape of an inmate he shall immediately give information to the Deputy Minister, to the Provincial Police and to the Chief Constables of the neighbouring cities and towns, giving a full description of the escaped person and shall take such other steps as may be necessary to effect his recapture.

17. When an inmate's term of sentence expires the Superintendent, with the approval of the Deputy Minister, may give instructions for transportation to be provided for him to enable him to return to his home.

18. The Superintendent may, at the time of the parole or discharge of an inmate, give such inmate a gratuity to assist in his re-establishment as a good citizen. Such gratuity shall not exceed $2.00 for each month of imprisonment of the inmate in the institution and not in any case to exceed a total of $20.00.

19. The Superintendent shall cause to be kept the following records:

(3) Such other returns as may be directed from time to time by the Deputy Minister.

21. The Superintendent is responsible for the uniform clothing supplied to the officers. Upon his order, with the approval of the Deputy Minister, each officer required to wear the official uniform shall receive an official uniform and such other outer clothing as the Superintendent considers necessary for the work to which that officer has been assigned. Such uniform and clothing is the property of the institution and the officer who receives it is required to pay a perquisite charge as determined by the Civil Service Commission of Ontario. All uniforms shall be of such design and of such material as may be directed by the Deputy Minister. All repairing of such uniforms and clothing is to be done at the institution and where such is necessary because of the carelessness or wilful acts of any officer he shall pay the cost of the necessary repair or replacement. No civilian clothing shall be supplied under any conditions.

22. Upon the admission of an inmate to the institution the Superintendent is responsible for having the inmate clothed as prescribed by the Deputy Minister. He is responsible for having the inmate's personal clothing cleaned and properly taken care of and restored to the inmate at the time of his parole or discharge from the institution. It is the duty of the inmate or his friends or relatives to see that he is properly clothed at the time of his discharge or parole from the institution, but if proper clothing is not provided the Superintendent may from the stores of the institution issue for the inmate's use such clothing as he may consider necessary.

31. He shall keep a record of all admissions to and discharges from the institution hospital or any other special hospital and of all cases treated by him with name, number and the diagnosis and treatment, with such observations as may assist in forming a perfect record of each patient. In the event of a patient being transferred to any other institution for treatment or observation the Medical Officer, on the patient's return, shall obtain a record covering the period of absence from the institution and see to it that it forms part of the institution records. It will also be the duty of the Medical Officer to see that the nurse or officer in charge of the hospital opens a clinical chart on each inmate who is placed in bed in the hospital ward, or in an emergency hospital ward.

32. He shall make a written report daily to the Superintendent of the attendance at the sick parade in the morning and of the disposition made of those reported sick. He shall also make a written report to the Superintendent of all admissions to and discharges from the hospital.

33. The physician shall at least once a week and also whenever requested by the Superintendent, inspect all the dormitories, cells, and other rooms used by the inmates as to their cleanliness and ventilation and sanitary condition and report their condition in writing to the Superintendent. Three copies of this report shall be made and once a month a copy of each of these reports shall be sent to the Department marked "Attention of the Medical Inspector."

34. He shall take the necessary action to insure a wholesome water supply and proper disposal of sewage, so as not to endanger the health of the inmates.

He shall also examine the place of storage and the place or places of preparation of this food prior to its being served. Whenever he finds that any provisions are unwholesome or that the food is insufficient or, for any reason, prejudicial to health, he shall immediately make a report thereon in writing to the Superintendent.

36. In case an inmate claims to be unable to work by reason of sickness or other disability, the Medical Officer shall examine such inmate. If, in his opinion, such inmate is unfit to work or if his occupation should be changed, he shall immediately certify on the usual daily report or as indicated, the fact to the Superintendent. Such inmate shall thereupon be released from work or have his occupation changed or be admitted to the hospital or elsewhere for medical treatment, as the Medical Officer shall direct, having due regard for the safekeeping of such inmate. When he certifies that such inmate has sufficiently recovered to be able to work, the inmate may be required to do so. The Medical Officer shall indicate which type of work, in his opinion, the inmate is fit to do and will consult with the Sergeant or other officer in charge of allotting the work concerning the precise nature of the intended work.

37. Whenever an inmate is injured, whatever may have been the cause, it shall be the duty of the Medical Officer to examine his injuries carefully, prescribe whatever treatment is deemed advisable, including hospitalization if necessary. He shall immediately report the nature of the injury and its cause in writing on the prescribed form directly to the Superintendent and in his absence to the Officer-in-Charge.

38. He shall, whenever requested to do so by the Superintendent, make a careful examination of any inmate and make a written report of his physical and mental condition.

39. Whenever an inmate, in the opinion of the Medical Officer, becomes mentally ill he shall certify the fact to the Superintendent and make a full statement of the mental and physical condition of the inmate, together with his opinion as to what disposition should be made of his case.

40. Should the Medical Officer observe that an inmate is seriously ill, he shall notify the Superintendent or the officer in charge in order that the inmate's relatives may be notified.

41. Whenever an inmate dies, the Medical Officer shall record the cause of death and all circumstances connected therewith, forwarding this together with all medical documents, to the Superintendent for his permanent record.

42. In cases where an inmate attempts suicide, it shall be the duty of the Medical Officer to notify the Superintendent and arrange for this inmate to receive a mental examination by the consulting psychiatrist prior to any criminal charges being laid.

43. In the event of the death of an inmate, the Medical Officer shall call the Coroner of the County or District and discuss the circumstances of the case with him, recording and carrying out the instructions of such Coroner.

44. The Medical Officer shall be assigned such officers and guards for hospital duty as may be necessary to care properly for the sick and he shall also be assigned such clerical help as may be necessary to assist him in performing the duties herein prescribed.

45. He shall keep such books and clinical records and in such form as may be ordered by the Deputy Minister. Such books and records shall be at all times subject to examination by the Deputy Minister and the Superintendent.

48. It will be the duty of the Medical Officer to keep a record showing the amount of opium or its derivatives delivered to his department and the dates of such deliveries; the amounts prescribed from time to time and the person for whom it is prescribed by his written order. It will also be his duty to check this record monthly, reporting any irregularities to the Superintendent.

SERGEANT

49. The Sergeant is the assistant and agent of the Superintendent in the governing and management of the institution, more particularly in securing compliance with its rules and regulations by the subordinate officers, employees and inmates.

50. He shall, under the direction of the Superintendent, have charge of the assigning of dormitories and cells to inmates.

51. He shall be present from the hour of unlocking in the morning until after the inmates have been locked up at night, unless leave of absence has been granted by the Superintendent.

52. He shall, unless otherwise arranged by the Deputy Minister, in the absence of the Superintendent, perform his duties.

He shall carry out all special instructions issued by the Superintendent for the government and discipline of the inmates and the officials in charge, and, subject to the directions of the Superintendent, and to these rules and regulations, shall have special control and direction of the disciplinary officers, guards and other employees and shall be held responsible for the manner in which each performs his respective duties. It shall be his duty to enforce obedience to the rules and regulations, and he shall report to the Superintendent strictly and promptly every neglect of duty, impropriety and misconduct or violation of the rules on the part of every officer, employee or inmate.

54. The Sergeant is responsible that the working gangs are paraded at proper hours and marched off to their various places of employment; that the gangs are mustered and counted at each meal and before locking up at night, so that each inmate may be accounted for properly. In enforcing the provisions of this section the Sergeant, with the approval of the Superintendent, may exempt therefrom any inmate for the use of whose services on special work outside of the regular working hours a permit has been issued by the Superintendent or Sergeant.

55. He shall furnish a report to the cook daily showing the number of officers, employees and inmates of the institution to whom meals have to be served.

60. He shall every evening before relieving the guards from duty verify by actual count the written daily count report furnished him by the officer in charge of custodial records.

61. Since the law gives to inmates the privilege of earning diminution of their sentences for good behaviour, it is necessary for all officers of the institution to observe closely the behaviour of every inmate under their charge, and it is especially necessary for the Sergeant to so inform himself as to the industry and behaviour of every inmate that he can, when called upon by the Superintendent to do so, make a full and correct report of the same. For the purpose of obtaining this information he should communicate freely with every officer and employee in charge of inmates at such times as he may think proper.

He shall make an exhaustive investigation of every such complaint and report the facts, together with all evidence relating thereto to the Superintendent for consideration and disposition. 73. Guards when on duty shall wear the prescribed uniforms and preserve the proper cleanliness in their person and habits. The uniform is not to be the property of the Guards at any time, but merely is for his official use whilst an officer of the institution. The uniform clothing is to be kept in good repair.

74. Guards taken ill and unable to continue, or go on duty shall immediately report this to the Sergeant, who shall notify the Superintendent. When the Superintendent considers it advisable to do so, he shall have the Medical Officer attend the Guard's residence, ascertain the cause of his illness and report his case to the Superintendent.

75. Guards in charge of inmates assigned to any branch of the institution shall, when on duty, be responsible to the head of that branch for the proper observance of the instructions given by such head as to the performance of the work, and must spare no effort to see that the inmates in their charge render a full day's service, and in a proper and workmanlike manner. When an inmate refuses to work or disobeys the rules, the Guard in charge must forthwith report the matter to the Sergeant.

76. The efficiency of a Guard, and his value to the institution shall be measured in part by the volume of work performed by his men and the quality of same, but he must not be harsh or unreasonable in his orders to inmates. Guards must also distinctly understand that it does not enhance their standing to refrain from reporting an inmate for disobedience or improper conduct.

77. When an inmate makes complaint against a Guard, Foreman, or employee on account of any order given him or on account of any action toward him by which he considers himself aggrieved, it shall be the duty of the Guard, employee or foreman to permit the inmate to produce his complaint to the Superintendent or Sergeant for consideration and action.

80. In forming their opinion in respect to the diligence and industry of an inmate, Guards will bear in mind that as one inmate may be able to do more and better work in a given time than another so their reports under this head shall have regard more to the continuous labour and the care of the inmate, as an evidence of his desire to be faithful, than to the amount of work he actually does as compared with others. The inmate who does the best should be given full credit for his efforts.

81. Whenever an inmate desires to make a complaint against another inmate, the Guard shall bring the matter to the attention of the Superintendent or Sergeant.

82. When an inmate desires an interview with the Superintendent or Sergeant, the Guard shall report the

A book shall be kept on each corridor during the night time to be designated the "Night Patrol Report Book", in which the Night Guards shall register incidents that occur during their part of the night duty, the time they entered on duty, and the hour they are relieved, and the hours that they are visited, this book to be left in the Sergeant's office every morning for his inspection.

90. The hours of night duty shall be such as are fixed from time to time by the Superintendent.

A violation of this rule will subject the offender to instant dismissal.

152. Every man who enters the service of the institution must constantly keep in mind the nature of the institution and the peculiarity of the duties he will, as an officer, have to perform, as well as his unusual relations to the institution, its officers and the inmates.

153. He must understand at the outset that the institution is designed, not only as a place of safe custody for those who have violated the law, but also as a means of reformation, if possible. This means that the rules and regulations are to be so construed and enforced as to develop that which is good in the inmates and guide them into habits of industry and to willing obedience to lawful authority. A man who is by nature incompetent to do this is not a suitable person for institution service.

154. The official relations between officers of the institution must be cordially maintained. Under no circumstances must the personal relations between officers be allowed to interfere with their official duties. Whenever an officer finds that he cannot bring himself to converse freely with another officer on official matters, it is time for him to sever his official relations with the institution. Failing in this the Superintendent will take peremptory action.

155. It shall be the duty of every person who enters the institution service to make himself thoroughly familiar with all the rules and regulations governing it, as well as with the bulletins and orders which may be issued from time to time. Ignorance of these will not be accepted as an excuse for neglect of duty or disobedience.

156. All persons accepting and retaining any position in the institution must do so with the full understanding that they are to devote their best energies and abilities faithfully and industriously to the performance of the duties to which they may be assigned, and those who cannot do this cheerfully must not accept or expect to retain a position in the institution.

157. The use of foul, indecent, vulgar or profane language is positively forbidden anywhere in the institution, either in the presence of inmates or officers, and any officer or employee violating this rule will be dismissed from the service of the institution. COMMIT THIS RULE TO MEMORY.

158. Upon the return to duty of an officer or employee of the institution who has been absent for more than one day on account of sickness, he must furnish to the Superintendent a certificate from a reputable practising physician showing the dates upon which he treated the patient professionally, the nature of the disease, and the entire time during which the officer or employee was incapacitated from duty. Medical certificates which do not conform to this requirement will not be accepted.

159. Leave of absence because of sickness or for other good reasons and vacation leave may be granted in accordance with the regulations governing the Public Service of Ontario.

160. While it is desirable that the general public shall know that the institution affairs are being honestly administered and the rules humanely enforced, in order that this branch of the public service shall receive that degree of public confidence which is necessary to obtain the best results, all information concerning the administration of affairs and discipline of the institution should reach the public through the Minister. Addresses by officers and employees upon subjects relating to the institution or to the inmates confined in it or furnishing information for newspapers or magazines for publication concerning institution affairs, or any inmate that has been, is or may hereafter be confined therein, is strictly forbidden, excepting upon authority of the Minister.

161. Officers and employees will not be permitted to exchange duties with another, excepting by first obtaining permission from the Superintendent or Sergeant, or in the case of serious sickness or other emergency.

162. All applications of inmates for executive clemency or for writs of habeus corpus shall be referred to the proper official through the Superintendent. All applications for parole shall be referred to the Parole Office through the Superintendent.

163. It is subversive to the discipline for any officer or employee to reply in like terms to what he might consider impudent or insulting language on the part of an inmate. His plain duty is to report the case to the proper authorities.

164. Matters pertaining to the discipline of the institution or which might reflect upon the actions of an officer or employee, and all criminal matters, must not be discussed in the presence or within the hearing of inmates. Nor will the inmates be allowed by any officer or employee to discuss such subject at any time.

165. Whether herein specifically provided or not, every officer and employee of the institution shall make to the Superintendent such oral and written reports of matters concerning the institution, its officers, employees or inmates as may from time to time be directed.

166. Officers and employees will not be permitted to receive any visits from any person during the hours of duty, nor shall any officer or employee be relieved from duty to answer telephone calls on private business unless the business is of the utmost importance to the officer or employee.

167. The general public may be admitted to the institution only at such times and with such restrictions as shall be fixed from time to time by the Minister. Book agents, insurance agents, solicitors for subscriptions to books and papers, and others who wish to ply their business in the institution will not be admitted. Ex-inmates from the institution or any similar institution will not be admitted without specific instructions from the Superintendent in each case.

168. Officers, guards, foremen and employees are prohibited from selling to or buying anything from an inmate, or giving to or receiving from them anything in the nature of a present, or conveying to or from them any message either written or verbal, excepting such as are necessary in the transaction of the business of the institution. Any ministers or other religious instructors or other persons permitted to attend the institution shall not receive from or confer any present upon the inmates, or become the medium of communication between them and their friends or others, except when such is obviously proper in the best interests of their families and will assist in their reformation, and they shall conform to the rules and regulations. Any infringement or departure from such rules shall debar them from future intercourse with the inmates.

169. The Superintendent may issue a ration of tobacco to inmates and in such case he shall designate the hours and places smoking is permitted. He shall issue similar instruction regarding smoking by officers and employees and in no case shall any officer or employee smoke when and where it is forbidden to inmates.

170. Mail and articles of all kinds sent to and from inmates shall be censored by an officer designated by the Superintendent and the Superintendent is hereby empowered and instructed to reject that which he considers improper to be sent or received except that inmates shall be always permitted to send proper letters to their solicitors or the Minister or the Deputy Minister or the Attorney-General.

171. Any officer, guard or employee who shall knowingly bring in or carry out, or endeavour to bring in or carry out, or knowingly allow to be brought in or carried out, to or from any inmate, any money, clothing, provisions, tobacco, letters, papers, or other articles whatsoever except as specifically permitted by these regulations, shall be subject to instant dismissal.

172. When any officer, guard or employee is suspended from duty for any cause whatsoever he shall forthwith leave the institution pending the Deputy Minister's investigation into the case and shall not be permitted to return thereto until the Deputy Minister's decision has been given.

173. Officers, guards and employees are absolutely prohibited from leaving any civilian clothing in any place in the institution where an inmate may readily have access to same and they must at all times see that such clothing is kept securely under lock or in accordance with the instructions of the Superintendent.

174. No person shall within the limits of the institution give to any other person any intoxicating liquor, nor keep, consume, nor have in his possession within such limits, any intoxicating liquor. Intoxicating liquor within the meaning of this regulation shall be "liquor" as defined by The Liquor Control Act.

175. Because of the great variation in activities in such institutions it cannot be expected that these rules and regulations will cover all situations. They are a general guide for officers and employees and are specific instructions, where they are applicable. When officers and employees are faced with situations not covered by these rules and regulations they must act in accordance with good judgment and common sense. If they do not use these qualities in the course of their official responsibilities they cannot expect to remain in the institution service.

176. Finally, the institution has been established to keep in safe custody those who have been legally committed there and to give them such training, advice and care that they will become good and useful citizens. All activities of the institution must serve these important purposes to the fullest extent and this fact must constantly be kept in mind and govern the actions of all officers and employees.

THE PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS INSPECTION ACT

O. Reg. 284/44.
Common and district gaols.
Replacing.
Made—December 19th, 1944.
Filed—December 22nd, 1944, 10.00 a.m.

THE INSPECTOR

1. One of the Inspectors of Prisons and Public Charities of Ontario shall at least once a year make an official visit of inspection to each gaol and Provincial lock-up and forward a copy of the report of such inspection to the Minister in charge and another copy to the Sheriff of the county or district in which the gaol or lock-up is located.

2. The report of the inspection shall cover all matters relating to the discipline and management of the gaol, such as number of prisoners in custody and the facilities provided for the custodial care and employment of all persons committed thereto. The structural defects, if any, must be pointed out and attention called to the necessity of providing sanitary conditions, such as proper ventilation of cells and other requisites for the health and safety of the prisoners.

3. When the conditions at any gaol are not satisfactory, and when no effort is made within six months following a report of the Sheriff calling attention to such defects to comply with the Gaol Act and remedy the conditions complained of, it shall be the duty of the Inspector to report the facts to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council in order that action may be taken in accordance with Section 9, Chapter 388, Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1937.

4. If, in the opinion of the Inspector, it is judged necessary to make an investigation into the causes leading to the escape of a prisoner from a gaol, or into any charges made by one gaol officer or employee against another, and such investigation discloses carelessness, indifference, neglect of duty or violation of any of the gaol regulations by any gaol officer or employee, the Inspector shall have authority to at once dismiss such officer or employee from his or her position or to impose a fine not exceeding $100.00, and such fine shall be collected by the Inspector and remitted either to the Provincial Treasurer or the treasurer of the county or district as may be directed by the Inspector.

THE SHERIFF

5. The Sheriff shall have general supervision over the gaol of his county, district or city so as to ascertain that the gaol rules and regulations are observed by all concerned, but he shall not control the management of the prisoners nor prescribe their duties.

6. He, or in case of his absence on leave, the Deputy Sheriff, shall visit the gaol at least once a month in company with the gaoler and matron, and inspect every portion of it, particularly the facilities for preventing escapes, and examine the records and books hereinafter named so as to inform himself as to the condition of the building and the prisoners, and to see that the entries in the books are properly made and up-to-date; he shall forthwith report to the Inspector any neglect of duty or misconduct on the part of any gaol officer. He shall have the power to suspend from duty any gaol officer or employee for gross negligence or misconduct, and after making such suspension, he shall at once report the facts to the Inspector for inquiry.

7. He shall see that all requisitions made by the gaoler for gaol clothing, furnishings and supplies are promptly transmitted to the chairman of the County Property Committee of the Council or steward or purchasing agent of the gaol. He shall see that such clothing, furnishings, and supplies are promptly delivered, and if they are not so delivered, he shall report the matter at once to the Inspector. He shall see that all returns asked for by the Government are promptly and correctly made out by the gaoler, or by such other officer as he may direct, and that they are duly forwarded to the Inspector, or such other officer as required.

8. He shall see that the wards, cells and yards allotted to the female prisoners are secured by locks different from those in the male departments, and that they cannot be opened by the same keys, and that neither gaoler or turnkey ever have in their possession a key to the corridor or cell of female prisoners.

9. He shall furnish to the gaoler for his own use and for the use of the prisoners such writing paper, envelopes and postage stamps for letters as may be required.

10. The Sheriff shall not direct a turnkey or any prisoner to engage in any work without the knowledge of the gaoler, or in his absence the deputy gaoler or chief turnkey.

11. He shall see that all prisoners sentenced to the penitentiary are removed within forty-eight hours after the close of the court at which they were sentenced unless otherwise ordered by the Inspector or the court.

GAOL OFFICERS

12. The following permanent resident officers of common gaols shall be appointed at every gaol, by the Sheriff, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, namely:

A Gaoler,
A Turnkey,
A Matron;

and in gaols where the number of prisoners requires it, such additional turnkeys, night watchmen, engineers, firemen, stewards, bookkeepers and female assistants as are necessary for the safe custody of the prisoners and the proper administration of the affairs of the gaol—the number of such additional turnkeys, night watchmen, engineers, firemen, stewards, bookkeepers or female assistants to be first sanctioned by the Inspector, and who shall be subject to the same regulations as turnkeys or matrons. This regulation shall not apply to the gaol in the City of Toronto as regards the appointment of stewards or engineers, the authority for which shall vest in the Municipality, but any steward or engineer appointed by the Municipality of Toronto shall be subject to the same gaol regulations as turnkeys.

13. Before the Municipality of Toronto shall appoint a steward or engineer, it shall be first necessary to receive a report from the Sheriff stating why such an appointment is necessary. This report must also receive the approval of the Inspector whose duty it shall be to notify the Clerk of the Municipality and to request that such an officer be appointed.

14. The bookkeeper or steward shall not alter the dietary or clothing prescribed for the prisoners, or in any way interfere with anything affecting the discipline of the gaol. The steward shall purchase supplies from time to time upon the requisition of the gaoler, approved by the Sheriff and see that they are properly cared for and distributed. He shall keep a stock book showing in detail all purchases made and how disposed of, and at the end of each quarter the quantities of goods on hand in the storeroom.

15. The duties of the bookkeeper, steward or engineer shall be prescribed by the gaoler.

16. In event of a permanent bookkeeper, steward or engineer being appointed in any common gaol none of them shall be suspended or dismissed without the consent of the Inspector.

17. Where there are ten or more turnkeys, the gaoler shall appoint one of them to be deputy gaoler and another to be chief turnkey. The gaoler shall prescribe their duties, subject to the approval of the Inspector.

Where the number of turnkeys is less than ten, but more than one, the gaoler shall appoint one of them to be chief turnkey and prescribe his duties subject to the approval of the Inspector.

18. There shall also be appointed by the Sheriff a medical officer, who shall be known and designated as the gaol surgeon and who must be a licensed medical practitioner.

19. Where the heating of the gaol requires it, the Sheriff may appoint a temporary engineer or fireman, who shall be subject to the same regulations as turnkeys. All permanent gaol buildings in every part must be fireproof.

SALARIES OF GAOL OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

20. The salaries of the gaol officers and employees shall be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, and shall be paid monthly by the county or city as the case may be.

21. If, in the opinion of the Sheriff, the services of any officer or employee in a gaol is no longer necessary, owing to a reduced population or other cause, it shall be the duty of the Sheriff to report the fact to the Inspector, and upon receiving his approval in writing, the Sheriff shall have authority to dismiss said person upon giving a notice of thirty days.

22. No person over forty-five years of age shall be appointed gaoler, turnkey, or matron, except when a deputy gaoler, chief turnkey, or assistant matron is promoted to a higher position: and no person shall continue to hold the office of a gaoler, turnkey or matron, after attaining the age of seventy years.

23. If, in the opinion of the Inspector, any permanent gaol officer has, by reason of age, physical or mental infirmity, or other proper cause, become unfitted to perform the duties of his or her position, the Inspector shall have authority to request the resignation of such officer, and in event of any refusal on the part of such officer to resign, the Inspector shall, with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, have authority to retire the said officer from his or her position in the gaol service.

24. In consideration of a gaol officer retiring or resigning from the service, he shall be entitled to superannuation allowance such as may be provided by the Statute in that behalf, providing that the council of the city or county has, in terms of the said Statute, agreed by resolution, or by law, to set aside the necessary funds for that purpose.

GENERAL RULES FOR GAOL OFFICERS

25. All gaolers, turnkeys and matrons shall devote their whole time to the performance of their official duties, and shall not be concerned in any other occupation, trade or calling whatever; and no Sheriff or other gaol officer shall have any benefit, advantage or interest, direct or indirect, by the sale, gift, or loan of any article to the gaol or to any prisoner; nor shall they or any other person or persons in trust for or employed by them, have any interest in any contract for or puchase of any supplies for the gaol; nor shall they apply to their own personal use any stores or supplies of any description purchased for the maintenance and support of the gaol, and the prisoners committed thereto except fuel, light, water and permanent furnishings as hereinafter provided.

26. All gaol officers shall perform their duties in a quiet, but determined manner. They shall avoid all discussions and disputes, especially such as are of a political or religious nature; and so far as it is in their power they shall see that the gaol rules and regulations are strictly obeyed by the prisoners.

27. No officer of a gaol shall smoke while on duty. Any infraction of this rule must be reported to the Sheriff who must reprimand the offender. Persistent infraction of this rule will be punished by suspension.

28. It is the special duty of turnkeys, matrons, and any other officers in charge of prisoners, under the direction of the gaoler, to guard and watch the prisoners, and to oversee them when at work, seeing that they are never under any circumstances whatever, left alone when in the gaol yards, or when cleaning any portion of the gaol premises, outside the corridors. They shall see that the work of cleaning the cells, corridors and other parts of the gaol, the airing and making-up of the beds, and the ordinary work of the gaol, is performed by a certain hour every morning, to be named by the gaoler. The cells, beds and bedding must be changed and in order before breakfast is served and the cell doors locked and kept locked, except in case of sickness, until bedtime.

29. No gaol officer, temporary or permanent, shall at any time discuss the affairs of the gaol or any occurrence or event connected with the administration of the gaol, with any person not engaged in the gaol service; nor shall any such officer supply information to any newspaper or representative thereof, unless authorized to do so by the Sheriff or the Inspector. Any violation of this rule will render the said officer subject to instant dismissal by the Inspector.

THE GAOLER

30. The gaoler shall reside convenient to the gaol, in a house provided by the city or county or district, when there is not room in the gaol building for residence, the said house being furnished with free water, light, and fuel, also such permanent furnishings as the city or county may provide, and with such grounds for a lawn or for garden purposes as can reasonably be provided in connection with such house.

31. In event of there being a dispute between the Sheriff and city or county council as to what domestic perquisites may be reasonably allotted to the gaoler, the Inspector shall have full and final authority to decide such matters.

32. When on duty the gaoler shall wear a uniform suit and cap, provided twice a year by the city or county council or district within whose jurisdiction the gaol is located. The color, quality and design shall be decided by the Inspector.

33. The gaoler shall have full charge at all times of the gaol and the prisoners; and he shall be responsible for the safe custody and general care of the prisoners, and for the condition of every part of the gaol and its surroundings.

34. He shall conform to the rules and regulations himself, and shall see that they are strictly observed by the prisoners, and by the turnkeys, the matrons, and all persons employed in or about the gaol.

35. He shall not admit to the gaol any persons brought by constables or others unless such persons are accompanied by the committal papers or a remand order from a magistrate.

The only departure from this rule is in exceptional cases where it would be impossible or inconvenient to secure an order from a magistrate, or when requested to receive prisoners from the provincial bailiff for temporary detention.

36. When absent from the gaol on leave, or on account of sickness, his place shall be filled by the deputy gaoler or the chief turnkey, and during the gaoler's absence, such officer shall have all the powers, privileges and duties of the gaoler. The gaoler shall not absent himself from the gaol for more than twelve hours without the consent of the Sheriff. In case of any dispute arising between the gaoler and the Sheriff as to reasonable leave of absence under this rule, the matter may be referred to the Inspector, who may grant leave of absence as he may think proper.

37. In gaols where there are a gaoler and one turnkey only on duty, and either one desires to leave the premises, it shall be the duty of the gaoler to notify the turnkey and the duty of the turnkey to notify the gaoler before leaving the gaol.

38. He shall pass through every part of the gaol and see every prisoner at least once a day; and once at least in each week he shall go through the gaol at uncertain hours at night; but neither he nor any male turnkey or assistant shall at any time visit the wards in which the female prisoners are confined without being accompanied by a matron. In gaols located in cities having a population of 50,000 or over it shall be sufficient for the gaoler to be assured that these duties are performed by the chief turnkey or his assistants.

39. He shall see that the person of every male prisoner is searched immediately on admission to the gaol. Searching of the prisoners must be done thoroughly and with due consideration for the persons searched. They must not be exposed to hardship during the searching. He shall accompany the gaol surgeon on all his visits to the male prisoners, and call his attention to any prisoner whose state of body or mind appears to require attention, and he shall carry out the written instructions of the gaol surgeon recorded in that officer's journal respecting change of diet, airing, cessation from work, and all other orders in regard to the health of prisoners, provided that such orders do not endanger the safe custody of the prisoner or prisoners affected thereby. He shall notify the gaol surgeon without delay of the illness of any prisoner. Upon the death of a prisoner he shall notify the coroner with a view to an inquest being held on the body, and he shall accompany the gaol surgeon and Sheriff on all their periodical visits of inspection through the gaol; or he shall see that these duties are attended to by a turnkey.

40. He shall be present at the opening of the corridors and cells in the morning, and at the locking-up of the same at night. He, or the deputy, or the chief turnkey, shall be the custodian of the keys of the men's department of the gaol during the night, and he shall see that the custodian keeps them in a safe place. He or the turnkey shall be present at the meals served to the male prisoners, and shall see that the food is good, properly cooked, properly served and in accordance with the dietary rules and regulations hereinafter prescribed. He shall see the cost of dietaries shall never exceed that authorized by the diet table and the contract for food supplies. In gaols located in cities with a population of 50,000 or over, the gaoler may require that the chief turnkey and his assistants perform these duties.

41. In order to guard against escapes he shall, on his daily visits, carefully observe all parts of the gaol and shall, at least once a week, carefully inspect all the doors, windows, iron gratings, locks, chimneys, and openings of every description, and search the beddings and furnishings, and all parts of the yards, in order to see that everything is secure and in good order and that everything that would help a prisoner in effecting an escape is removed beyond the reach of the prisoners. In his visits at any time to a ward in which prisoners, charged with or under sentence for indictable offences, are confined he shall always be accompanied by another officer, and in like manner a turnkey must be accompanied by the gaoler or another officer when visiting such prisoners.

42. He shall report to the Sheriff all cases of insubordination or dereliction of duty on the part of any officer or servant of the gaol, and in case no action is taken by the Sheriff, he shall immediately report the facts to the Inspector.

43. He shall keep and be responsible for the safe custody of the following books, and shall see that they are entered up regularly and neatly every day:

(a) A Gaol Register which must be entered up whenever a prisoner is received, and must be closed and all columns of figures added up on the 30th September in each year so as to correspond with the annual returns made to the Inspector.

(b) A Daily Journal in which shall be entered daily all occurrences of importance within the gaol, together with the gaoler's remarks upon structural defects and all other matters which should be brought to the notice of the Inspector.

(c) A Dietary Book in which shall be entered all the information required by the headings of the different columns of such book, as prescribed from time to time by the Inspector.

(d) An Account Book (when there is no steward appointed) showing the amount of articles used in the maintenance of the gaol, the exact quantities of all such articles bought for use in the gaol, and the prices paid for them—this book to be balanced on the 31st March, 30th June, 30th September and 31st December. There shall also be compiled on the 31st March of each year an exact abstract from the books, showing the number of prisoners and their collective days' stay during the year, and the daily cost of each prisoner's rations. These statements, duly certified as to their correctness, shall be given to the Sheriff for transmission to the Inspector.

(e) A Punishment Book in which shall be minutely recorded all punishments and deprivations awarded to the prisoners.

(f) A Prisoners' Effects Book in which shall be entered a list of all articles taken from any prisoner on admission, the list to be signed by such prisoner as evidence of its correctness, and receipt for the same at termination of sentence. This book shall also record the fact when a prisoner was transferred to a penitentiary, reformatory, or industrial farm, or other place of detention; all his personal belongings, to be given to the bailiff or constable transferring him, and a receipt taken for the same.

(g) A Labour Book showing how every prisoner has been daily employed.

44. The names of all prisoners whose sentences do not expire on March 31st shall be re-entered in the register in a class by themselves, with full particulars of their terms of sentence. This entry must be kept separate from the list of names of prisoners committed to the gaol on or after April 1st.

45. He shall have the custody of the Inspector's Memorandum and Inspection Book, in which the Inspector shall record his remarks and instructions respecting the gaol, its conditions and management. This book must be kept at the gaol.

THE MATRON

46. The matron shall, under the direction of the gaoler, have the care and superintendence of the women's department of the gaol, and the female prisoners. She shall be provided with two plain black serge or alpaca dresses each year, to be worn on duty and to be provided in the same manner as uniforms for other gaol officials. She shall see that no male officer or other male person enters the wards for women, or other place where female prisoners are at work, without being accompanied by her or another matron; and she shall have the sole custody and care of the keys used in the women's departments, and be responsible for their safekeeping.

47. She shall not be absent from the gaol at any time when female prisoners are in custody without the consent of the gaoler, unless another matron is approved by him to take her place.

48. She shall at least once a day visit and inspect every part of the gaol in which female prisoners are confined or are at work. She shall at least once a week closely inspect all the iron gratings, locks and window gratings, and search the cells and bedding in order to discover whether anything is secreted by which an escape might be facilitated or injury attempted.

49. She shall accompany the gaol surgeon on his visits to the departments for female prisoners, or in her absence appoint another matron to do so, and shall inform him of anything pertaining to the mental or physical condition of the female prisoners that should be brought to his attention; and she shall notify the gaoler without delay of the illness of any female prisoner.

50. She shall be present at the meals served to the female prisoners, and see that they are properly served; and she shall be present in the morning at the opening of the wards and cells in which the female prisoners are confined, and at the locking-up of the same at night, or in city gaols shall cause another matron to act for her.

51. She shall see that the persons of all female prisoners are searched on admission, and that all articles found are delivered to the gaoler, and that the list thereof in the Prisoners' Effects Book is signed by the prisoner. Searching of the prisoners must be done thoroughly and with due consideration for the persons searched. Their bodies must not be exposed or subjected to hardship during the searching.

52. She shall report everything of importance that occurs in the women's departments to the gaoler, to be recorded in the Journal; and she shall also report every case of disobedience, insubordination or other infraction of the rules and regulations on the part of the female prisoners, and shall see that the punishment awarded for the same is strictly carried out.

In city gaols where there are three or more matrons the official duties of each shall be arranged in an equitable manner by the Sheriff and gaoler, and if they do not agree, by the Inspector.

THE GAOL SURGEON

53. The gaol surgeon shall attend professionally on all the prisoners, and shall have the general care of their health. In his visits to the men's wards he shall be accompanied by the gaoler or a turnkey, and in his visits to the women's wards by a matron.

54. In the event of serious illness requiring removal of a prisoner to a public hospital, he shall notify the gaoler and Sheriff of such condition, but the gaol surgeon shall not have authority to incur any hospital or medical expenses payable by the city, county, district or province.

55. He shall keep a journal which shall be open for perusal in the gaol office, in which he shall record in plain, legible writing, with his signature thereto, (1st) the date and hour of every visit paid to the gaol; (2nd) name of prisoner, nature of disease, medicine prescribed, and his instructions respecting diet and exemption from labour. Any refusal or neglect on the part of the gaol surgeon to attend to the foregoing duties shall be at once reported by the Sheriff to the Inspector, who shall have power to demand compliance therewith, and in event of continued refusal, the Inspector shall have power to suspend the gaol surgeon indefinitely, without salary, and may appoint a temporary successor.

56. He shall, at least once every three months, visit every part of the gaol and closely inspect the means of drainage, ventilation, heating and water supply, and shall record in his journal, for the information of all concerned, any remarks or suggestions he has to make respecting the same, together with any remarks or suggestions he has to make respecting want of cleanliness, bad quality of food, insufficiency of clothing or bedding, or any other cause which may affect the health of the prisoners, and notify the Sheriff of any defects.

57. When corporal punishment is, by the order of a Court, to be inflicted on a prisoner, the gaol surgeon shall first make an examination of the physical condition of the prisoner, and report whether the infliction of such corporal punishment will be attended with danger to life, or with risk of permanent injury to health, and he shall always be present during the infliction of the punishment, and record his observations.

58. The gaol surgeon shall, when directed so to do by the Sheriff, examine and report on the statutory form upon prisoners who have become insane, shall closely observe the mental condition of such prisoners, and enter in his journal a record of the result of his observation. The gaol surgeon, if a coroner, must not hold inquests on prisoners dying in gaol, nor is he to make a post-mortem examination, if such be ordered, of a deceased prisoner. He shall attend inquests on deceased prisoners and give evidence, for which he shall be paid the usual fee.

59. In case of sickness, necessary engagement, or leave of absence granted by the Sheriff or Inspector, the gaol surgeon shall appoint, subject to approval of the Sheriff, an efficient substitute, who must be a legally qualified medical practitioner, who, during the absence of the gaol surgeon, shall perform all his duties and be subject to his responsibilities.

THE TURNKEYS

60. The turnkeys shall obey the directions of the gaoler, subject to these rules and regulations, and perform such gaol duties and work as may be directed by him, such directions to be recorded in the gaoler's Journal, and to be subject to revision by the Inspector. There shall be one turnkey for each twelve prisoners in custody.

61. When on duty the turnkeys shall wear a uniform suit provided in the same manner as for gaolers. The color, quality and design shall be decided by the Inspector.

62. Where the gaol staff consists of a gaoler and two or more turnkeys or a night watchman, one of them shall be on duty at night and shall be stationed near where the most important prisoners are confined, and shall not absent himself from the gaol without leave from the gaoler, and before so absenting himself must notify the gaoler and deliver to him such of the gaol keys as are in his possession.

63. A turnkey shall at no time enter or open any part of the gaol where any prisoner is confined without the gaoler or another turnkey being present, one of them must remain outside the gate or door and shall lock the said gate or door as soon as the officer accompanying him has entered. The officer entering must not have in his possession any key that will open the gate or door or any key whatever except the cell keys, nor shall he have any deadly weapon.

64. It is the special duty of turnkeys and matrons, under the direction of the gaoler, to guard and watch the prisoners, and to oversee them when at work, seeing that they are never, under any circumstances whatever, left alone when in the gaol yards, or when cleaning any portion of the gaol premises outside the corridors. They shall see that the work of cleaning the cells, corridors, and other parts of the gaol, the airing and making-up of the beds, and the other ordinary work of the gaol, is performed by a certain hour every morning, to be named by the gaoler. The cells, beds and bedding must be changed and in order before breakfast is served and the cell doors locked and kept locked, except in case of sickness, until bedtime.

65. If in the performance of their duties the turnkeys and the gaoler disagree the matter may be referred to the Sheriff for a ruling and in event of his decision being unsatisfactory either the gaoler or the turnkey may appeal to the Inspector, whose decision shall be final.

66. Unseemly wrangling or contentions among turnkeys during their hours of duty must in no case be permitted, and the Sheriff is charged with the duty of disciplining for any infraction of this rule.

67. Turnkeys are under no circumstances to enter into controversies with prisoners. Any refusal by prisoners to carry out a turnkey's instructions is to be reported to the gaoler without comment or argument, and every prisoner must be treated with consideration in the enforcement of gaol discipline.

68. Turnkeys shall not receive any visitors within the gaol without the permission of the gaoler.

69. They shall immediately report to the gaoler any case of disobedience, insubordination or infraction of the rules and regulations on the part of any male prisoner, and shall see that the punishment awarded by the gaoler is strictly carried out.

NIGHT WATCHMEN

70. Where the number of prisoners in a gaol renders it necessary to have one or more night watchmen, such officer shall be deemed a turnkey, and as such shall be subject to these rules and regulations; and he shall obey the directions of the gaoler. He shall be appointed by the Sheriff subject to the approval of the Inspector, and confirmed by an Order-in-Council.

71. He shall commence and leave off duty at such hours as the gaoler shall direct. Before going on duty he shall pass through all the men's wards of the gaol with the gaoler, or in his absence with a turnkey, when he shall count the prisoners and see that their number agrees with the report of the gaoler or turnkey, and that they are all securely locked up in their cells, and that the corridors are also securely locked.

72. When on duty he shall move about noiselessly, but shall not open a cell wherein any prisoner is confined without first calling the gaoler or turnkey. He shall be attentive to any unusual noise, and ascertain the cause thereof, and shall be especially vigilant in guarding against any attempt at escape, or any danger from fire, giving instant attention to any smoke, smell of burning or other indication of fire, and immediately give warning to the gaoler.

PRISONERS

73. All prisoners shall be searched on admission, the men by the gaoler or a turnkey, the women by a matron, and all articles not necessary for a prisoner's use while in the gaol, or calculated to facilitate an escape, shall be taken from them, and a list thereof entered in the Prisoners' Effects Book, and so marked that articles of importance can afterwards be identified by the gaoler or turnkey, together with an account of all money and other articles which may be sent to the prisoners while in confinement. When a prisoner is being transferred everything belonging to such prisoner must be delivered to the bailiff making the transfer and a receipt taken for the same. On the discharge of a prisoner such articles and money shall be delivered to him or her, except unlawful weapons, burglar's tools, and other articles which may be legally confiscated by the gaol authorities, or which are retained by order of a court or judge, taking his receipt in presence of a witness for the same.

Whenever it becomes necessary to transfer a prisoner from a gaol to a court for trial, to give evidence or for any other purpose, he shall not be permitted to take with him any money or personal effects.

74. On the admission of any prisoner, the name, age, and all other particulars respecting such prisoner which are required in order to fill up the columns of the Gaol Register, shall be recorded in the Register.

75. Within three hours of admission all prisoners shall be bathed and cleansed, and they shall be required to keep themselves clean and decent in their persons. When prisoners are received after 6 o'clock in the evening and the gaoler decides that their bodies and clothing is not infested with vermin it will not be necessary to bathe them till the next morning. All male prisoners shall, on conviction and sentence, have their hair cut by a turnkey as close as may be necessary for the purposes of health and cleanliness; but the hair of a female prisoner shall not be cut without her consent, unless the gaol surgeon orders it to be done on the ground of health, or on account of vermin or dirt.

76. All prisoners shall be locked in their cells not later than 8 p.m. in summer and by 7 p.m. in winter, Standard Time, and all lights shall be put out at the said hours except those required for the use of prisoners on remand and of officers on night duty unless otherwise ordered by Inspector or gaol surgeon. (For the purposes of this rule summer shall begin on April 1st, and winter on November 1st). All prisoners shall be up by 6 a.m. in summer and not later than 7 a.m. in winter and washed and dressed and their cells in order before receiving their breakfast. Sick prisoners' hours shall be regulated by the gaol surgeons. Prisoners on remand may be allowed light until 9 p.m.

77. If the accommodation and arrangement of the gaol will permit of it, each of the following classes of prisoners of each sex shall have a separate and distinct ward, into which no member of any other class shall be admitted:

(1) Adult prisoners awaiting trial upon a first charge.

(2) Adult prisoners convicted and sentenced.

(3) Juvenile prisoners, whether awaiting trial or under sentence.

(4) Witnesses, persons committed for contempt of Court or other civil process.

78. In addition to the foregoing classification, a further separation shall be made if the accommodation of the gaol admits of it, as follows:

(1) Adult prisoners awaiting trial upon a second or further charge.

(2) Juvenile prisoners awaiting trial upon a second or further charge.

(3) Hardened and degraded offenders who have been previously convicted.

79. Every prisoner shall be provided with cell accommodation, each single cell being not less than 4 x 8 x 8 feet. The number of prisoners in any gaol shall never exceed the number of beds in the cells without the consent of the Inspector. The placing of mattresses for prisoners on the floors of corridors must not be allowed except in extreme circumstances. Each cell shall have a bedstead, a tick and pillow filled with clean straw, or a mattress instead of straw, a sufficient supply of blankets, a pint cup of water, and a night pail where no closet is provided. Every prisoner must be provided with a towel, soap and comb. All sheets and blankets shall be changed once a week, or oftener if necessary.

80. The windows in corridors must be left at night in such a manner as to secure a current of air through both the cells and corridors. The corridors must never be crowded, and on no account must there be more prisoners at any time on any corridor than there are cells opening on such corridor except in extreme temporary circumstances.

81. The following disinfecting solution should be prepared by the gaoler or a turnkey and used for scrubbing out the cells and corridors at least once during each month:

Carbolic acid.....1 pint
Hot water.....2½ gallons

Stir well until no droplets of acid remain in the bottom of the mixture. This should be so thoroughly applied as to cover every surface.

82. Clergymen of all denominations, or other representatives, including the Salvation Army, shall be permitted to visit the prisoners registered as members of their denominations.

83. No prisoner shall be compelled to see a clergyman professing a different creed from his own, and the officers of the gaol shall endeavor, if practicable, to procure the services of any particular clergyman whom the prisoner may desire to see; but every gaol officer is strictly forbidden to attempt to make proselytes among the prisoners.

84. Every prisoner has the right to complain to the gaoler at his daily visits, or to the Sheriff when he visits the gaol, or to the Inspector during his inspections, of any act on the part of a gaol official or another prisoner affecting his rights and privileges under these rules and regulations, and to that end a copy of such of the rules and regulations as affect prisoners shall be placed in each ward of the gaol for the perusal of the prisoners.

85. Prisoners convicted of misdemeanors of a political character or for contempt of court, or committed on civil process, or prisoners who are mental cases or suspected mental cases, persons detained as witnesses or persons on remand awaiting trial for breaches of municipal by-laws, or for offences against the Statutes of Ontario, may, upon the consent of the Inspector, procure either by purchase or from friends, bedding and food, apart from the gaol bedding and food, such bedding and food to be subject to examination by the gaoler or matron, and such prisoners in all other respects to be subject to the rules and regulations of the gaol. If money is given therefor, such bedding and food may be purchased for such prisoners by the gaoler, who shall keep a strict account in respect of such purchases, and submit the same to the Sheriff before any such prisoner leaves the gaol; but the privilege of procuring bedding and food outside of the gaol bedding and food shall not be extended to any other prisoners than those named therein except in the case of a prisoner condemned to death, who may procure his food from outside, which shall be prepared under the direction of the gaoler.

86. No gaoler, turnkey or other gaol servant shall advise, or in any way endeavor to induce, any prisoner to employ any solicitor or barrister to act in the interests of a prisoner, unless asked to do so by the prisoner personally. But a solicitor or counsel shall not have access to any prisoner when accompanied by any person other than a gaoler or turnkey, or matron, except when a gaoler, turnkey or matron is also present.

87. Every prisoner unless under sentence of death shall be allowed to have exercise in the open air, during which he must be attended by one or more of the gaol officers; but if, during such open air exercise, any prisoner attempts to excape, or is found to be plotting to escape, or misconducts himself or herself in any way, the gaoler may withdraw the privilege of such exercise indefinitely, in which case such prisoner shall not be allowed to go into the gaol yards until the privilege is restored, unless the gaol surgeon certifies that it is necessary on account of health.

88. Whenever, in the case of a prisoner charged with an indictable offence, the Crown Attorney having charge of the prosecution considers it in the interest of justice and requires, by writing under his own hand, that such prisoner shall be kept separate and apart from the other prisoners and visitors, the gaoler shall see that such requirement is carried out, and that such prisoner is kept separate and apart from all the other prisoners and visitors, and that he or she is not afforded any apportunity to communicate in any way with any one, except his or her legal advisor or clergyman, or such other person as the Crown Attorney shall in writing sanction. This restriction shall not apply to gaol officials, Sheriffs or the Inspector.

89. Prisoners shall be allowed to see and consult with their legal advisers from 9.30 to 5 p.m. except Sundays, and with clergymen at any reasonable time. All such consultations must be held in sight of a gaol officer. Other persons may be allowed to see and converse with prisoners at such hours and on such days as the Sheriff may fix, but such visits and conversations must take place in the presence of a gaol official, and at such times as are most convenient to the gaoler and not on public holidays.

90. Prisoners awaiting trial, or under custody by civil process, shall have the right to send and receive letters at all reasonable times, provided that the contents of such are not in any way subversive of gaol discipline; but prisoners under sentence shall only be allowed to write to relatives once a week, unless the Sheriff's consent is obtained to write oftener. All letters written or received shall be submitted to the gaoler for inspection.

91. All prisoners shall be allowed to read, within the hours prescribed for that purpose by the gaoler, such books and papers of a proper character as may be obtained from the gaol library or otherwise.

92. It shall be the duty of each prisoner to obey the orders of the gaoler and turnkey at all times, and in event of refusal such prisoner shall be liable to any of the punishments hereinafter mentioned.

INTERVIEWING PRISONERS

93. No person shall be allowed access to any prisoner for the purpose of "interviewing" him or her, with a view to publishing a report of such interview. No photographic instrument shall be permitted within the gaol grounds at any time for the purpose of obtaining a picture of any prisoner, except by order of the Inspector. In the case of a prisoner awaiting trial, however, he may be permitted to see his own doctor, upon receiving the consent of the gaol surgeon or Sheriff, but the city or county shall not be required to pay for the services of such doctor.

PRISONERS CONDEMNED TO DEATH

94. All articles which the gaol surgeon may deem dangerous or inexpedient to leave in their possession shall be taken from prisoners condemned to death; and no one except his spiritual adviser or gaol official shall be allowed access to any such prisoner without a written order from the Sheriff or Inspector.

95. Prisoners condemned to death shall be clad in the regulation gaol clothing and be placed for safe-keeping in a suitable cell apart from all other prisoners in which they shall be guarded day and night. Where the ordinary gaol staff is insufficient to provide a guard in constant attendance on the prisoner, it shall be the duty of the Sheriff to engage one or more special guards for that purpose. The special guard shall not occupy the cell with the prisoner, but shall remain in the corridor in such a position where he can at all times see the prisoner. The special guard shall not have a key to the cell or to the corridor both of which shall be in possession of either the gaolor or turnkey with whom he may at any time communicate. The prisoner shall have the right to select his own spiritual advisor, who may be a clergyman or a layman, but the spiritual adviser shall not be permitted to enter the cell with the prisoner, nor shall the prisoner be permitted to enter the corridor with the spiritual adviser. Such diet as his friends may provide at their own expense may be given to the prisoner, but such diet must be carefully prepared under the direction of the gaoler.

EXECUTIONS OF PRISONERS

96. The Sheriff shall be responsible for the conduct of all executions of prisoners within the gaol yards and behind a temporary or permanent enclosure. No person shall be permitted to witness an execution except gaol officers, the Inspector, county officers of justice, clergyman and such relatives of the prisoner to be executed as may be proper to admit, unless in exceptional cases.

97. A representative of each newspaper published in the county or city in which the execution takes place may be permitted to be present at such an execution, upon receiving the written consent of the Sheriff or the Inspector; but no photographic instrument shall be allowed to be brought into the gaol premises by such representative, or by any other witness, and any account of such execution that may be published must simply contain a brief statement of the facts without enlargement and without illustration.

98. The gaol surgeon shall attend on all executions that take place in his gaol, and he shall determine when life is extinct and when the body may be taken down.

99. The coroner shall have twelve jurors in readiness in a room, and when the body is taken down the corner shall request the said jurors to satisfy themselves as to the cause of death, either with or without a post-mortem examination.

100. No officer of the gaol and no prisoner confined therein shall in any case be a juror on such inquest.

101. The Sheriff shall be entitled to his fees for attending upon an execution, as prescribed by Statute; he may employ an expert for the erection of the scaffold and its enclosure and for carrying out the sentence of the court. The nature of the scaffold shall be decided by the Sheriff after consulting the executioner.

102. The city, county or district in which the execution is to take place shall be required to pay the necessary travelling and hotel expenses of the said executioner, as well as for the erection of the scaffold and transportation of any weights or other scaffold fixtures.

103. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff to see that the body of any prisoner executed within the gaol grounds is interred inside such grounds, and no departure can be made from this rule unless with the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the Inspector.

PRISON OFFENCES AND PUNISHMENTS

104. No punishments or deprivations of any kind shall be awarded to any prisoner except by the gaoler, who shall have power to order punishments or deprivations for the following offences, namely:

(1) Disobedience of the rules and regulations of the gaol.

(2) Common assaults by one prisoner on another.

(3) Cursing or profane language.

(4) Indecent behavior or language.

(5) Insulting, threatening or violent language towards another prisoner or any officer of the gaol, or towards a visitor to the gaol regularly admitted thereto.

(6) Idleness or negligence at work on the part of a prisoner sentenced to hard labor.

(7) Refusal or neglect to keep his or her cell in order.

(8) Wilfully destroying or defacing the gaol property.

(9) Unnatural intercourse between prisoners.

105. For the foregoing offences the gaoler may award any of the following punishments or deprivations in his discretion, according to the heinousness of the offence:

(1) The hardbed, that is, by removal of the straw tick or mattress from the bedstead for an indefinite period, sufficient covering, however, to be left.

(2) Bread and water diet for a period not exceeding five consecutive days.

(3) Confinement in a properly lighted, heated and ventilated cell, with bread and water diet, for a period not exceeding three days, during which period the prisoner must be visited not less than twice in twenty-four hours, by the gaoler or matron.

(4) Strapping to consist of not more than 12 slaps at any one time, administered by the gaoler, in presence of the gaol surgeon, who must first give his written statement that the health of the prisoner will not be endangered by this punishment.

106. Before awarding punishment to any prisoner, the gaoler shall make careful enquiry into all the facts connected with the commission of any offence, and shall make an entry, signed by his full name, in the punishment book of the following particulars:

(1) The name of the prisoner.

(2) The nature of the offence.

(3) The name of the complainant and witnesses.

(4) The punishment or deprivation awarded.

PRISONERS' CLOTHING

107. There shall be a uniform prison garb in all the gaols of the Province in which prisoners who have been convicted and sentenced shall be clothed; the garb for male prisoners to consist of a tunic, trousers and cap made of cloth, the color and quality of which shall be prescribed by the Inspector, a pair of brogans, and such underclothing as the season requires; and for the females an over-dress and underskirt of such material and color as the Inspector shall prescribe, a pair of shoes and such underclothing as the season requires,—all of which articles must be marked with indelible ink by the gaoler with the name of the gaol to which they belong.

108. As soon as a prisoner is convicted and sentenced his or her personal clothing shall be removed, and a list thereof shall be entered in the Prisoners' Effects Book and the prisoner shall be clothed in the prescribed prison garb; and if the clothes of a prisoner awaiting trial are insufficient or unfit for use, or are required for the purposes of justice, they shall be removed and the prisoner shall be furnished with a suitable garb, unless he or she provides other suitable clothing.

109. Prisoners awaiting trial, convicted for misdemeanors, committed for contempt of court or on civil process, and Crown witnesses, may, unless otherwise directed by the Inspector, wear their own clothing, such clothing to be subject to examination by the gaoler, turnkey or matron.

110. Any person being a resident of the Province of Ontario, committed as a vagrant on account of old age, helplessness or indigence, and not for actual crime, and who is unable to do hard labour, must be supplied with civilian's clothing by the city or county, if his clothing upon his admission is found to be insufficient in quantity or unsuitable in quality for the season. They shall also be provided with such a diet as would be given in a house of refuge. It shall be the duty of the gaol surgeon to make a record of such cases for the guidance of the gaoler. The gaol surgeon shall on the admission of any old men or women notify the Sheriff so that such indigents may be removed to a suitable charitable institution. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff to secure the prompt removal of all old people from the gaol. Able-bodied tramps committed as vagrants must be compelled to do hard labour from 7 a.m. to 12 and from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. in summer and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. in winter, and they shall be clothed in the ordinary prison clothing and supplied with the ordinary prison diet.

111. Whenever prisoner's clothing of the prescribed garb and pattern, articles of bedding or gaol furniture and furnishings, are required for the use of the gaol, the gaoler shall make a written requisition on the Sheriff, giving a detailed list of such articles, and the Sheriff, after approval shall at once notify the Chairman of the Property Committee or the Steward, and if the clothing, articles of bedding or furniture and furnishings are not delivered, or if authority is not given to the Sheriff to procure such supplies, he shall, through the Inspector, order such supplies and send the bill for payment to the county or municipality.

112. All clothing of prisoners should be thoroughly disinfected. Vermin in a gaol means carelessness in cleanliness and lack of disinfection. Clothing may be disinfected with formaldehyde as follows: Place the clothing in a trunk, wash boiler or covered box, one piece at a time, covering each piece with a towel, pillow slip, sheet or piece of cloth, and sprinkle or spray on each cover as it is laid on, two tablespoonfuls of 40 per cent formaldehyde. When the trunk or boiler is full, put on the cover and let stand for twenty hours, then open and air the clothing. Each piece of clothing should be covered to protect it from being spotted by the formaldehyde.

DIETARIES

113. No beer or wine or fermented or spirituous liquors of any kind shall be allowed to prisoners or permitted within the gaol, unless specially ordered by the gaol surgeon, such order to be recorded in his journal, together with the name of the prisoner for whom the article is ordered.

114. Smoking and other proper use of tobacco by prisoners when not at work and in designated portions of the gaol is permitted at their individual expense. Tobacco shall not be purchased with public funds. It shall be purchased only by the gaol officers, as directed by the Sheriff, from funds supplied and deposited at the gaol by or on behalf of each prisoner. Purchasing of tobacco by others for the prisoners must not be permitted. An account book carefully complete in detail and receipted by the prisoners concerned shall be kept at each gaol.

This section authorizing the use of tobacco by prisoners shall not be applicable to any gaol until straw ticks and other highly inflammable materials have been permanently removed from the gaol premises and proper fire protection, including proper fire alarm system, has been provided. Where such conditions have not been complied with the gaol surgeon or Inspector may authorize the use of tobacco in individual cases, making a record in the journal in each instance. The gaoler may deprive any prisoner of tobacco for violation of the rules and regulations.

115. The gaol dietaries shall be divided into two scales, namely:

(1) For prisoners awaiting trial, or not doing labour other than ordinary gaol work.

(2) For prisoners doing labour other than ordinary gaol work.

116. The dietary under the foregoing scales shall be as follows:

Scale No. 1

Supper

One pint of gruel, eight ounces of bread, every night, with syrup and coffee.

116A. In addition to foregoing two scales, there shall be an additional scale of diet, to be used in gaols in cities of 50,000 population and over, for female prisoners, as follows:

Breakfast

One pint of gruel, thick if preferred, with syrup or milk, and six ounces of bread, every morning, and when women are engaged at hard labour, such as washing and scrubbing, one pint of coffee to be given when so engaged.

Dinner

Four ounces of cooked meat (without bone), six ounces of bread, and eight ounces of potatoes, on three days in the week.

Six ounces of bread, ½ pound of potatoes and one pint of gruel or vegetable soup, on two days in the week. One pint of vegetable soup and six ounces of bread, on two days in the week.

One pint of boiled rice, and either six ounces of sweet milk or two ounces of jam, or four ounces of baked pork and beans; or one pint of porridge of oatmeal, wheat meal, Indian corn meal, or cracked wheat; varied from day to day; sweet milk or syrup; and eight ounces of bread, and one pint of buttermilk, or one pint of tea or coffee sweetened with molasses; to be varied throughout the week.

117. The oatmeal gruel shall contain two ounces of oatmeal to every pint of water, and Indian corn meal and wheat meal gruel three ounces to the pint. The soup, peas, beans or other vegetable soup shall contain three ounces of cooked meat to the pint and a sufficient quantity of vegetables with pepper and salt. Fish may be substituted for beef three times a week on order of the Sheriff, gaoler or Inspector, in which case two ounces more fish must be given than is named in the different scales for meat; and all prisoners shall be allowed at their meals as much good water, hot or cold, and salt as they desire.

118. Sick prisoners under the care of the gaol surgeon must be allowed a diet of milk, eggs, butter, tea and bread as he may direct, his instructions in this respect to be entered in his journal for the guidance of the gaoler, who must see that the orders are carried out.

119. Where possible, prisoners' labour shall be utilized for the performance of such labour as may be necessary, such as repairs to the gaol, whitewashing, painting, cleaning of cells and corridors, making of beds, shovelling snow, and such other work on gaol or court house property as may be required.

120. The food supplies shall be carefully weighed or measured when delivered out for use, and the gaoler shall enter the weight or quantity in the Account Book, and he shall exercise the greatest care so as to ensure that all food supplied to the prisoners shall be of good quality and of proper weight or measure.

121. Every gaol shall contain a kitchen and a storeroom attached thereto, and the gaoler shall receive and examine all articles of food and other supplies and shall carefully weigh or measure the same, or cause this to be properly done, and enter the weight or measurement and the price in the Account Book.

122. The cooking of the food and the washing of clothes and bedding shall be done by a prisoner or prisoners, under the supervision of a turnkey, when done by male prisoners, and under the direction of the matron if done by female prisoners, the gaoler deciding whether it shall be done by male or female prisoners; and if by the latter, only female prisoners in charge of a matron must be allowed in the kitchen and wash-house, or if by the former, only male prisoners shall be present, and they shall be in charge of a turnkey.

LABOUR AND EMPLOYMENT OF THE PRISONERS

123. The establishment of industrial farms is to be encouraged for the employment of prisoners in profitable open air work. Idleness on part of prisoners in gaol must not be encouraged. Every prisoner must be kept employed. Each prisoner must keep his or her cell and the corridor clean and orderly. Every cell must be cleaned once a month with a disinfectant, and under no circumstances shall vermin be found in a gaol. Vermin can only be prevented by insisting that no person and no infected clothing can be allowed to enter a gaol corridor or cell until thoroughly bathed, cleaned and disinfected. The scrubbing and cleaning of the corridors and all other portions of the gaol, inside and out, and of the yards, shall be done by the prisoners.

124. Labour is compulsory for all sentenced prisoners, unless the health of any prisoner as certified by the gaol surgeon in his journal will not permit of it. The nature of the labour other than the gaol work, at which they shall be placed, shall be sawing wood, cutting and splitting wood, breaking stone, gardening, repairs to buildings and fences, painting, white washing, kalsomining, cleaning the yards and shovelling snow on the gaol property, the nature of extra mural labour being hereinafter provided for. When no work can be obtained for prisoners they shall be drilled in marching and counter-marching, and in lifting, carrying and dropping weights, or at such other exercise as the Sheriff may approve of on the gaol grounds; and while prisoners are engaged in such drill and exercise or are employed, they shall constantly be under the guard of the gaol officers.

125. Prisoners awaiting trial, witnesses for the Crown, and prisoners committed on civil process shall have the option of employment, but shall not be required to perform other labour, but shall keep their cells and corridors clean and in order, and all shall be invited to work.

126. The hours of labour shall be ten in summer and eight in winter, and no prisoners shall be required to perform any labour, either within or without the gaol, other than keeping his or her cell and the gaol clean and in order on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Good Friday; and no Jew or Seventh-day Adventist shall be required to perform any labour, either within or without the gaol, other than as aforesaid, on his Sabbath day (Saturday).

127. No turnkey, prisoner or prisoners, shall engage in work outside the gaol or court house buildings or grounds thereof without the knowledge and order of the gaoler or, in his absence, the chief turnkey.

EXTRA-MURAL LABOUR

128. No prisoner sentenced to confinement in any gaol of the Province shall be assigned for the performance of extra-mural labour until he shall be certified by the gaol surgeon to be physically fit to perform the class of labour at which it is proposed to employ him.

129. All prisoners who are to be employed at extra-mural labour shall receive, every day in which they are so employed, the dietary named in Scale No. 2.

130. All prisoners engaged upon extra-mural labour shall be clothed in the prescribed gaol garb, and in winter must have underclothing of sufficient warmth, as prescribed by the gaol surgeon.

131. The work upon which prisoners may be employed shall (except as hereinafter provided) be exclusively confined to works carried on under the direct control of the Government of Ontario, or of the council of the county or united counties, or of a city, town or township in the county or united counties or district in which the gaol is situated, the consent of the Inspector to be first obtained to such work.

132. When government or municipal work cannot be conveniently had a prisoner may be employed under guard on private work; but in no case shall the gaol labour be so used without the express sanction of the Inspector, who shall first receive a report from the Sheriff, setting forth the nature of the work to be performed and the amount of remuneration to be received therefor. The wages of a prisoner engaged in such extra-mural work may be paid, with the approval of the Sheriff, to assist in the maintenance of such prisoner's wife, children, or dependent relatives, and a careful record kept of the same. Every such prisoner shall, during such employment, be subject to the regulations made for the government of common gaols and the care of inmates thereof, every street, highway or public thoroughfare on which prisoners may pass on going to and returning from their work, and every place where they may be employed shall, while so used, be deemed to be a part of the gaol to which they belong.

133. The works upon which prisoners may be employed under guard shall be breaking stone, cutting wood, digging drains and sewers, cleaning public streets, cultivating and improving public grounds, or such other work as may be recommended by the Sheriff, and approved by the Inspector, being of such a nature as to admit of the prisoners being massed together or kept in line while at work.

134. During the months of November, December, January, February and March, the length of the working day for extra-mural labour shall be eight hours, during daylight, with an allowance of one hour for dinner; and in the remaining months of April, May, June, July, August, September and October, nine hours shall be the length of a working day, with an allowance of one hour for dinner. In no case shall prisoners be employed before or after daylight, and no extra-mural labour shall be exacted from prisoners on any holiday, provincial or municipal.

135. When six prisoners, or any less number, sentenced for felony, or under the sentence of the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery, or the General Sessions, or County Judge's Criminal Court, are employed beyond the gaol walls, they shall be constantly under the supervision of two efficient guards, and for every additional six prisoners, similarly convicted, another guard shall be employed; but where prisoners have been otherwise sentenced two guards shall be considered sufficient for any number of not more than twelve of such prisoners, and one extra guard for every additional twelve prisoners, or less. In cases where it is found expedient, the ordinary turnkeys of the gaols shall be employed for the duty referred to; but where the disciplinary arrangements of a gaol will not admit of this, the Sheriff shall hire the extra guards required and fix the amount of their remuneration. Guards shall continuously watch and supervise the prisoners while at work beyond the gaol walls, and shall enforce any rules which the Sheriff, having regard to the special exigencies of the work and its surroundings, may consider it necessary to make for the safe custody of the prisoners so employed.

136. The Sheriff shall cause to be kept by the gaoler a proper record showing the number of prisoners employed under the foregoing regulations, the time worked daily by such prisoners, the nature of the work, the money received for the labour, and the government or municipality for whom the work was done; and he shall send such copies of such record to the county clerk and the Inspector at the end of each year, September 30th.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

137. There shall be granted leave of absence of three weeks in each year to all officers of the gaol, who have completed one full year's service and there shall be granted one week leave of absence to all officers of the gaol who have completed six months service but less than one year. The dates of such leave of absence shall be determined by the Sheriff or Inspector. During such leave of absence it shall be the duty of the Sheriff to engage a proper substitute when necessary, either male or female, the wages of such substitute to be fixed by the Sheriff and paid by the county, district or municipality.

In addition to the annual vacation of three weeks, and subject to the necessity for special surveillance over important prisoners, every permanent gaol officer and employee shall be entitled to one-half day off duty each week, and to one day off duty each month, which shall include the half-day for that week, as may be arranged by the Sheriff. Should there be any dispute between the Sheriff and gaol officers as to the weekly and monthly leave, the matter may be referred to the Inspector for a decision.

138. No reduction shall be made in the salary or wages of any gaol official while leave of absence is granted to him or her on account of such leave of absence, unless he or she exceeds the said period of three weeks; nor shall any reduction in salary or wages be made for enforced leave of absence on account of sickness, as may be decided by the gaol surgeon, with the approval of the Sheriff, and during such enforced leave of absence it shall be the duty of the Sheriff to engage a proper substitute when necessary and report same to the Inspector.

139. Should the Sheriff at any time receive a certificate from the gaol surgeon that any officer granted leave of absence on account of sickness or ill health is able to assume his duties in the gaol, it shall be the duty of the Sheriff at once to notify such officer, and request his return to duty, and from the date of such certificate it shall not be necessary for the county or municipality to pay the wages of his or her substitute.

GAOL BUILDINGS AND YARDS

140. No horses, cows, pigs, cattle or poultry or manure shall be kept in the yards of the gaol, or in any part thereof. The presence of flies about any part of a gaol means carelessness on the part of the gaoler and turnkeys in permitting dirt and conditions favourable to the breeding of flies.

141. No dirt or garbage shall be allowed to accumulate in the prison yards, and no wood or material shall be piled against the walls, either outside or inside, and all boards and material, whether loose or fixed, that can be used as a means of escape, must at once be removed beyond the reach of prisoners.

142. No portion of the gaol interior or yards shall be used by a gaol officer for storage or as a workshop for his or her own purpose, without permission from the Sheriff.

143. No gaol yard or portion of a yard shall be used as a garden for the purpose of raising roots or vegetables for the benefit of an officer of the gaol; and no trees or shrubs shall be planted in any of the gaol yards, or sufficiently near the outside for the branches to reach the wall.

144. There shall be dry earth privies in every yard of the gaol, for day use, and, wherever it is practicable, these privies shall be used instead of the closets inside the building. It shall be the special care of the gaoler to see that absolute cleanliness is observed in all the privies and closets, and when necessary the privies must be emptied. A supply of chloride of lime must be kept on hand when such privies are used. This provision is not applicable where waterworks and a sewerage system exists.

145. When padlocks have to be used for securing outside doors or gates, or interior ward gates or doors, and such padlocks require to be renewed, the new padlocks shall be of approved pattern; and all cell and corridor locks must be of the most improved design for strength and safety. The keys of all yard gates and of gates and doors leading from the gaol yards shall be in the continuous possession of the gaoler, deputy or chief turnkey.

DISTRICT GAOLS AND LOCK-UPS

(2) And, when necessary, a turnkey, matron, or other assistants.

153. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff to exercise a special administrative supervision over his district gaol, and a general supervision over each lock-up in his district.

154. It shall be his duty to notify the Inspector of any requisitions made upon him by the gaoler or lock-up keepers for clothing, fuel, furnishings, repairs and improvements of all descriptions, necessary for the safe keeping of prisoners committed thereto.

155. It shall be his duty to notify the Inspector of any irregularities on the part of the gaoler or other officers of the gaol or lock-up.

156. The district gaoler, matron, turnkey and gaol surgeon shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council upon the recommendation of the Inspector, and shall be paid monthly such salaries as are designated with their appointments.

157. In the event of more than one turnkey being necessary, the Sheriff shall appoint one temporarily and at once notify the Inspector. The salary of the temporary officers at a district gaol shall be paid monthly by the district treasurer on order of the Sheriff approved by the Inspector.

158. The duties of the district gaoler shall be in all respects the same as the duties of gaolers in common gaols, except as may be otherwise ordered by the Inspector.

159. The duties of the turnkeys shall be the same as those turnkeys in common gaols, except as may be otherwise ordered by the Inspector.

161. In event of the gaol surgeon being a coroner, and there being no other coroner in the town or village in which the district gaol is situated, the gaol surgeon shall be authorized to act as coroner in holding an inquest over the body of any deceased prisoner who dies in the gaol. He shall also be authorized to make a post-mortem examination of such bodies when necessary.

162. The duties of the lock-up keeper shall be to keep the lock-up clean, comfortable and orderly, to receive all prisoners properly committed either to the lock-up or to a district gaol.

163. He shall also feed each prisoner during the time he is in custody in his lock-up, for which he shall be allowed 75 cents per day for each prisoner, or 25 cents per meal, unless otherwise ordered by the Inspector.

164. He shall keep a record of the name of each prisoner so committed or fed, as well as the number of meals given each prisoner, and any other remarks that may be proper or necessary to make, and must at the end of each year, September 30th, transmit a report to the Inspector on approved forms.

165. The necessary expenditure incurred by each lock-up keeper for the care and feeding of prisoners shall be made out on a proper account and forwarded to the Sheriff of his district, who, after approval of the same, shall forward it to the Inspector. The Sheriff shall also certify to the correctness of any accounts rendered for repairs, improvements or lock-up fittings, and send the same to the Inspector for consideration.

166.—(1) Where a district gaol or lock-up is situated in an incorporated city, town or village and the corporation of such city, town or village is permitted to use the gaol or lock-up for the custody of municipal prisoners, such corporation shall pay to the treasurer of the district in which such gaol or lock-up is located, for the use of the Province, the sum of 75 cents per day for the full number of days during which any such prisoner is in custody in such gaol or lock-up.

(3) This rule shall be deemed to have been in force and shall have effect from the 1st day of January, 1935.

167. A return shall be made each quarter, by each gaoler and lock-up keeper, to the Inspector of all the moneys collected from retention of said fines, together with a statement showing the number of days each prisoner was in custody, who afterwards paid his or her fine.

168. The dietary for use in district gaols shall be the same as that prescribed for use in the common gaols, and it shall be the duty of the gaolers to see that this rule is faithfully attended to, keeping a supply of food on hand for that purpose and charging the actual cost of food consumed. No stated amount will be allowed per day for prisoners.

169. The dietary for use in district lock-ups shall be the same as that prescribed for common gaols, as far as the lock-up keeper can direct.

170. Whenever it is necessary to remove a prisoner from a district lock-up to a district gaol, it shall be the duty of the local constable to effect such removal. If there be no local constable it shall be the duty of the lock-up keeper to make such removal.

171. The fees allowed for the removal of a prisoner from a district lock-up to a district gaol shall be the ordinary rate fixed by tariff as the fees of constables, in addition to the actual cost of the travelling expenses of himself and the prisoner, as well as hotel expenses when such are necessarily incurred.

47. At the close of each year the medical officer shall make a report to the Deputy Minister in which he shall present, in summarized form, a complete history of the operations of his office during the year and such other information as may be required of him.

48. It will be the duty of the medical officer to keep a record showing the amount of opium or its derivatives delivered to his department and the dates of such deliveries; the amounts prescribed from time to time and the person for whom it is prescribed by his written order. It will also be his duty to check this record monthly, reporting any irregularities to the Superintendent.

SENIOR ATTENDANT

49. The senior attendant is the assistant and agent of the Superintendent in the governing and management of the institution, more particularly in securing compliance with its rules and regulations by the subordinate officers, employees and inmates.

50. She shall be present from the hour of unlocking in the morning until after the inmates have been locked up at night, unless leave of absence has been granted by the Superintendent.

51. She shall, unless otherwise arranged by the Deputy Minister, in the absence of the Superintendent, perform her duties.

52. She shall carry out all special instructions issued by the Superintendent for the government and discipline of the inmates and the officials in charge, and, subject to the directions of the Superintendent, and to these rules and regulations, shall have special control and direction of the disciplinary officers, guards and other employees and shall be held responsible for the manner in which each performs her respective duties. It shall be her duty to enforce obedience to the rules and regulations, and she shall report to the Superintendent strictly and promptly every neglect of duty, impropriety and misconduct or violation of the rules on the part of every officer, employee or inmate.

53. The senior attendant is responsible that the working gangs are paraded at proper hours and marched off to their various places of employment; that the gangs are mustered and counted at each meal and before locking up at night, so that each inmate may be accounted for properly. In enforcing the provisions of this section the senior attendant, with the approval of the Superintendent, may exempt therefrom any inmate for the use of whose services on special work outside of the regular working hours a permit has been issued by the Superintendent or senior attendant.

54. She shall furnish a report to the cook daily showing the number of officers, employees and inmates of the institution to whom meals have to be served.

56. The senior attendant is responsible for the security of the buildings and shall see that the following rules are observed:

(1) That the locks are secure and in good order.

(2) That the entrance doors shall never be left open or a key in any lock, and that the keys are in the custody of the person in charge at all times.

(3) That before an attendant enters a cell or dormitory while any inmate is in the corridors the bolt shall be shot and the keys shall be removed, so that the door cannot be closed upon her.

(4) That she or any officer deputed by her shall once a day at least examine all doors, corridor grilles and each window grating.

(5) That all implements, ladders or materials of work calculated to facilitate escape shall be carefully collected and placed so that any inmate may not use them to escape or for other improper purposes.

(6) That all dormitories, cells, furniture and bedding therein shall be carefully searched at irregular intervals to see that no improper articles are concealed.

(7) That all orders issued by the Superintendent regarding the custody of keys shall be observed.

57. In assigning an inmate to work she shall be guided by the physical and mental condition, previous occupation, skill and criminal record of the inmate, and the requirements of the institution.

58. She shall every evening before relieving the attendants from duty verify by actual count the written daily count report furnished her by the officer in charge of custodial records.

59. Since the law gives to inmates the privilege of earning diminution of their sentences for good behaviour, it is necessary for all officers of the institution to observe closely the behaviour of every inmate under their charge, and it is especially necessary for the senior attendant to so inform herself as to the industry and behaviour of every inmate that she can, when called upon by the Superintendent to do so, make a full and correct report of the same. For the purpose of obtaining this information she should communicate freely with every officer and employee in charge of inmates at such times as she may think proper.

60. The senior attendant shall carefully investigate all reports of offences committed by inmates and in making these investigations she shall earnestly endeavour to ascertain all the facts. She shall make a report daily or more often, if necessary, to the Superintendent of all inmates so reported to her, the nature of the offence and the result of her investigation.

61. She shall not entertain a complaint made by one officer against another, or by an officer against an inmate, unless the complaint is stated in writing. She shall make an exhaustive investigation of every such complaint and report the facts, together with all evidence relating thereto to the Superntendent for consideration and disposition. Where the complaint is made against the senior attendant, the Superintendent shall make the investigation and direct the disposition of the complaint.

62. When an inmate is taken ill or is injured, the officer in charge shall report at once to the senior attendant. She shall advise the medical officer and nurse, and in all cases of illness or injury, she shall make written reports on the progress of the patient to the Superintendent.

She shall call the medical officer and nurse, or, if requested by the patient, her own physician, and report the case to the Superintendent. On the patient's return to duty, she shall see that a certificate is provided in accordance with the regulations of the Civil Service Commissioner.

64. She shall supervise and direct the bathing and dressing of each inmate upon admission, and shall, with the approval of the Superintendent, assign her to a place in a dormitory or corridor.

67. She shall on reporting for duty, at all times during the night and before going off duty, ascertain by actual observation that all inmates are present according to the official count.

68. The watchman's clock shall be checked at such times as may be directed by the Superintendent. Any tampering with the watchman's clock by an attendant to prevent its recording her inattention to duty shall be deemed good cause for her dismissal.

69. It shall be the duty of each night attendant, immediately on coming on duty, to carefully examine the door of each cell or dormitory to see that it is secure and not tampered with.

70. It shall be the duty of the night attendants in corridors during the night to keep patrolling in such manner as to have every portion of the cells or dormitory under observation. They shall move noiselessly, closely observing the doors on passing, stopping frequently and listening in the event of any noise such as filing bars or other indications of attempt to escape, betraying themselves. Upon the inspection of the doors on a night attendant coming on duty, she shall see that the inmate is in the cell or that the required number of inmates are in the dormitories, assuring herself by what she sees that they are real living persons.

120. Attendants shall be on duty such hours every day as may be fixed by the Superintendent, and they shall not absent themselves from duty on any pretext without the permission of the Superintendent or the senior attendant. When desiring to leave the Service, they shall give thirty days' notice of their intention to do so, otherwise all pay due may be forfeited.

121. Attendants shall be respectful in their manner and courteous in their language to all officers and to all persons visiting the institution under proper authority.

122. Attendants when on duty shall wear the prescribed uniforms and preserve the proper cleanliness in their person and habits. Attendants off duty will not be permitted to wear their uniform, but will wear plain clothes. The uniform is not to be property of the attendants at any time, but merely is for her official use whilst an officer of the institution. The uniform clothing is to be kept in good repair.

123. Attendants in charge of inmates assigned to any branch of the institution shall, when on duty, be responsible to the head of that branch for the proper observance of the instructions given by such head as to the performance of the work, and must spare no effort to see that the inmates in their charge render a full day's service, and in a proper and workmanlike manner. When an inmate refuses to work or disobeys the rules, the attendant in charge must forthwith report the matter to the senior attendant or the Superintendent.

124. The efficiency of an attendant, and her value to the institution shall be measured in part by the volume of work performed by the inmates under her control and the quality of same, but she must not be harsh or unreasonable in her orders to inmates. Attendants must also distinctly understand that it does not enhance their standing to refrain from reporting an inmate for disobedience or improper conduct.

125. When an inmate makes complaint against an attendant or employee on account of any order given her, or on account of any action toward her by which she considers herself aggrieved, it shall be the duty of the attendant or employee to permit the inmate to produce her complaint to the Superintendent or senior attendant for consideration and action.

126. When an inmate is obliged to retire for necessary purposes, the attendant in charge shall take care that the place is so situated and so conspicuous that the inmate cannot leave it without coming into plain sight, and not more than one inmate shall be allowed in the place at the same time. Where the inmate remains in such a place for an unreasonable time, the attendant must make certain that nothing is wrong and that the inmate is in the place where she is supposed to be.

127. Where an inmate is taken sick or is injured the attendant shall at once report the fact to the senior attendant or the Superintendent. In case of serious or fatal injury, the attendant shall make a complete written report of the matter to the senior attendant.

128. In forming their opinion in respect to the diligence and industry of an inmate, attendants will bear in mind that as one inmate may be able to do more and better work in a given time than another so their reports under this head shall have regard more to the continuous labour and the care of the inmate, as an evidence of her desire to be faithful, than to the amount of work she actually does as compared with others. The inmate who does her best should be given full credit for her efforts.

129. Whenever an inmate desires to make a complaint against another inmate, the attendant shall bring the matter to the attention of the Superintendent or senior attendant.

130. When an inmate desires an interview with the Superintendent or senior attendant, the attendant shall report the request to the Superintendent or senior attendant before going off duty.

131. Attendants shall not indulge in any familiarity toward inmates, nor will they permit inmates to act familiarly toward them. Violations of this rule will be followed by instant dismissal.

132. Attendants are forbidden to frequent gambling houses or other disreputable places when off duty, and must never come on the premises while in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor. Nor shall an attendant or any other officer be permitted to use morphine, chloral, cocaine, or any similar drug generally classed under the title of "dope". Violations of this rule will be cause for instant dismissal.

133. When an attendant, officer, or other employee desires to make a request or to submit some grievance against another attendant, officer or employee, it shall be submitted to the Superintendent or senior attendant in writing.

RULES GOVERNING ALL OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF THE INSTITUTION

134. No official, attendant or other employee shall at any time make the affairs of the institution, or any branch thereof, or any occurrence therein, or any matter relating to an inmate or the conduct of any other official, attendant or employee, the subject of conversation or gossip and no official, attendant or other employee shall impart to any person any information as to the matters above mentioned, except when required so to do in the discharge of her duty by the Minister, the Deputy Minister or any superior officer in the institution. A violation of this rule will subject the offender to instant dismissal.

135. Every person who enters the service of the institution must constantly keep in mind the nature of the institution and the peculiarity of the duties she will, as an officer, have to perform, as well as her unusual relations to the institution, its officers and the inmates.

136. She must understand at the outset that the institution is designed, not only as a place of safe custody for those who have violated the law, but also as a means of reformation, if possible. This means that the rules and regulations are to be so construed and enforced as to develop that which is good in the inmates and guide them into habits of industry and to willing obedience to lawful authority. A person who is by nature incompetent to do this is not suitable for institution service.

137. Officers and employees shall direct and employ to the best of their ability and skill the physical, mental and moral capacity of persons under their charge, and shall endeavour to develop their powers, their womanhood and their self respect so that they may improve and progress as much as possible during their residence in the Reformatory.

138. The official relations between officers of the institution must be cordially maintained. Under no circumstances must the personal relations between officers be allowed to interfere with their official duties. Whenever an officer finds that she cannot bring herself to converse freely with another officer on official matters, it is time for her to sever her official relations with the institution. Failing in this the Superintendent will take peremptory action.

139. It shall be the duty of every person who enters the institution service to make herself thoroughly familiar with all the rules and regulations governing it, as well as with the bulletins and orders which may be issued from time to time. Ignorance of these will not be accepted as an excuse for neglect of duty, or disobedience.

140. All persons accepting and retaining any position in the institution must do so with the full understanding that they are to devote their best energies and abilities faithfully and industriously to the performance of the duties to which they may be assigned, and those who cannot do this cheerfully must not accept or expect to retain a position in the institution.

141. The use of foul, indecent, vulgar or profane language is positively forbidden anywhere in the institution, either in the presence of inmates or officers, and any officer or employee violating this rule will be dismissed from the service of the institution.

142. Upon the return to duty of an officer or employee of the institution who has been absent for more than one day on account of sickness, she must furnish to the Superintendent a certificate from a reputable practising physician showing the dates upon which he treated the patient professionally, the nature of the disease, and the entire time during which the officer or employee was incapacitated from duty. Medical certificates which do not conform to this requirement will not be accepted.

143. Leave of absence because of sickness or for other good reasons and vacation leave may be granted in accordance with the regulations governing the Public Service of Ontario.

144. While it is desirable that the general public shall know that the institution affairs are being honestly administered and the rules humanely enforced, in order that this branch of the public service shall receive that degree of public confidence which is necessary to obtain the best results, all information concerning the administration of affairs and discipline of the institution should reach the public through the Minister. Addresses by officers and employees upon subjects relating to the institution or to the inmates confined in it or furnishing information for newspapers or magazines for publication concerning institution affairs, or any inmate that has been, is or may hereafter be confined therein, is strictly forbidden, excepting upon authority of the Minister.

145. Officers and employees will not be permitted to exchange duties with another, excepting by first obtaining permission from the Superintendent or senior attendant, or in the case of serious sickness or other emergency.

146. All applications of inmates for executive clemency or for writs of habeous corpus shall be referred to the proper official through the Superintendent. All applications for parole shall be referred to the Parole Office through the Superintendent.

147. It is subversive to the discipline for any officer or employee to reply in like terms to what she might consider impudent or insulting language on the part of an inmate. Her plain duty is to report the case to the proper authorities.

148. Matters pertaining to the discipline of the institution or which might reflect upon the actions of an officer or employee, and all criminal matters, must not be discussed in the presence or within the hearing of inmates. Nor will the inmates be allowed by any officer or employee to discuss such subject at any time.

149. Whether herein specifically provided or not, every officer and employee of the institution shall make to the Superintendent such oral and written reports of matters concerning the institution, its officers, employees or inmates as may from time to time be directed.

150. Officers and employees will not be permitted to receive visits from any person during the hours of duty, nor shall any officer or employee be relieved from duty to answer telephone calls on private business unless the business is of the utmost importance to the officer or employee.

151. The general public may be admitted to the institution only at such times and with such restrictions as shall be fixed from time to time by the Minister. Book agents, insurance agents, solicitors for subscriptions to books and papers, and others who wish to ply their business in the institution will not be admitted. Ex-inmates from the institution or any similar institution will not be admitted without specific instructions from the Superintendent in each case.

152. Officers, attendants and employees are prohibited from selling to or buying anything from an inmate; or giving to or receiving from them anything in the nature of a present, or conveying to or from them any message either written or verbal, excepting such as are necessary in the transaction of the business of the institution. Any ministers or other religious instructors or other persons permitted to attend the institution shall not receive from or confer any present upon the inmates, or become the medium of communication between them and their friends or others, except when such is obviously proper in the best interests of their families and will assist in their reformation, and they shall conform to the rules and regulations. Any infringement or departure from such rules shall debar them from further contact with the inmates.

153. The Superintendent may issue a ration of tobacco and cigarette papers to deserving inmates, and she shall specify when and where smoking will be permitted. Only a sufficient quantity for immediate use shall be issued. Matches or lighters must not be given to inmates but suitable lighters may be carried by attendants during smoking periods. No tobacco nor cigarettes other than the official issue will be permitted. She shall issue instructions regarding smoking by officers and employees and in no case shall officers and employees smoke when and where it is forbidden to inmates.

154. Departmental officials shall not nor shall the Superintendent, or other officer, employee of the Reformatory, either in his own name, or in the name of or in connection with or as the agent of any other person, provide, furnish or supply any materials, goods, or provisions for the use of the Reformatory; or be concerned, directly or indirectly, in furnishing or supplying the same, or in any contract relating thereto.

155. No male employee of the institution shall at any time have a key to any part of the institution where inmates are confined or at work. He shall not have access to any part of the building where inmates are confined or at work, except when necessary in the discharge of his official duties, and then must at all such times be accompanied by a female officer.

156. Mail and articles of all kinds sent to and from inmates shall be censored by an officer designated by the Superintendent and the Superintendent is hereby empowered and instructed to reject that which she considers improper to be sent or received except that inmates shall be always permitted to send proper letters to their solicitors or the Minister or the Deputy Minister or the Attorney-General.

157. Any officer, attendant or employee who shall knowingly bring in or carry out, or endeavour to bring in or carry out, or knowingly allow to be brought in or carried out, to or from any inmate, any money, clothing, provisions, tobacco, letters, papers, or other articles whatsoever except as specifically permitted by these regulations, shall be subject to instant dismissal.

158. When any officer, attendant or employee is suspended from duty for any cause whatsoever, she shall forthwith leave the institution pending the Deputy Minister's investigation into the case and shall not be permitted to return thereto until the Deputy Minister's decision has been given.

159. Officers, attendants and employees are absolutely prohibited from leaving any civilian clothing in any place in the institution where an inmate may readily have access to same and they must at all times see that such clothing is kept securely under lock or in accordance with the instructions of the Superintendent.

160. No person shall within the limits of the institution give to any other person any intoxicating liquor, nor keep, consume, nor have in her possession within such limits, any intoxicating liquor. Intoxicating liquor within the meaning of this regulations shall be "liquor" as defined by The Liquor Control Act.

161. Because of the great variation in activities in such institutions it cannot be expected that these rules and regulations will cover all situations. They are a general guide for officers and employees and are specific instructions, where they are applicable. When officers and employees are faced with situations not covered by these rules and regulations they must act in accordance with good judgment and common sense. If they do not use these qualities in the course of their official responsibilities they cannot expect to remain in the institution service.

162. Finally, the institution has been established to keep in safe custody those who have been legally committed there and to give them such training, advice and care that they will become good and useful citizens. All activities of the institution must serve these important purposes to the fullest extent and this fact must constantly be kept in mind and govern the actions of all officers and employees.

(j) The number of strokes with the strap shall be in proportion to the offence committed, and in no case shall exceed ten at any one application.

(5) Complaints by officers or employees against an inmate must be submitted in writing, giving all possible details.

(6) When the Superintendent has decided on the necessary punishment, she shall inform the inmate of her decision and immediately upon the infliction of the punishment shall have the necessary entries made in the "Punishment Record".

(7) Should the Superintendent, for good and sufficient reasons, decide to remit a portion of any such punishment so ordered, or restore the privileges withdrawn, she shall enter such remission or restoration in the column of the "Punishment Record" provided therefor, and duly date and sign the same, thereupon the portion of the punishment, deprivation, or withdrawal of privilege shall immediately be effected.

(8) No punishment of an inmate of any kind shall be ordered except by the Superintendent, or in her absence, by the senior attendant or other officer designated by the Deputy Minister.
